I instructed them on how to purchase the goods I wanted and they never paid, they claimed they wanted the bitcoin to confirm. It's been confirmed for 15 mins now and they're online but haven't paid. Will update with proof!

Did you seriously open a deal dispute after 15 minutes of the Bitcoin confirmation?

Yes, but mainly because I failed to see earlier that they already had an open deal dispute that's unresolved.

Has this been resolved yet?

It takes at least an hour to get the necessary 3 confirmations that you need to solidify the transfer. If you waited for all three and not just the first one, plus the 15 minutes, I admire your patience. If it were me, I would have been bitching knowing that they're online.

I've put out several warnings for this user. I'm sorry for your loss OP and hope you can recover this.

Personally, my friend has been scammed $500 BTC.

It looks like he has changed his entire profile (username and profile picture) to try and scam again.

It seems every time he goes out for a scam, he switches up the username.

I hope with the new contract system in place, Staff will look closer into deal disputes and take action against repeat scammers.

Here's hoping that this account will be closed. I can grab some screenshots but I'm not sure if it's needed because it was all done via hf pm.

It doesn't hurt. You might as well for the validity of the deal dispute.

Thanks. Sadly I don't think this will get resolved. Maybe they will get banned but they're too poor and too much a dick to pay my $100 back.
