Thread: How often do you seed torrents?

Byte™ - March 10, 2019, 3:17 pm

Because I recently got my upload speed increased to 250 megabits I've been feeling generous and keep seeding for downloads that personally took me forever (downloads where my speed was limited) so I can help someone else out.

It was kinda funny because I've been seeding this new game call satisfactory (A 3d version of Factorio pretty much) which is about 10.5GB, anyways when I woke up I uploaded about 1.2TB worth of data.

So are there exceptions on what you will seed on? I personally won't seed if there are like 1k seeders and only 100 leechers.

Astrogen - March 10, 2019, 3:26 pm

I don't seed at all. I only download stuff and my upload isn't that fast.

DrDoof - March 10, 2019, 3:30 pm

Depends on the tracker. TPB, yify, etc I don't seed. For private trackers I've got a seedbox. Currently seeding around 250 torrents.

PerfectStorm - March 10, 2019, 3:32 pm

I don't really torrent so I never do.

Cocaine - March 10, 2019, 3:41 pm

I rarely will leave a seed going unless I forget it. I don't use my bandwidth for that lol.

Spearmint - March 10, 2019, 3:48 pm

I seed the same amount of data that I downloaded ?

Smexy - March 10, 2019, 4:27 pm

I feel like seeding is maintaining a connection with the file, thus law enforcement can sniff that. I'm safer of without seeding..

Nima304 - March 10, 2019, 5:37 pm

I seed constantly (gotta get that good karma to offset all the bad things I do), my only problem is that I've been using Comcast for two years now, so my ratio dropped from >18 to just over 9. I moved into a new house with gigabit upload, though, so it's time to get that ratio back up.

SteamedHams - March 10, 2019, 8:47 pm

I seldom torrent, but I tend not to. It's a bad habit of mine.

Mindless - March 10, 2019, 8:49 pm

If the torrent is near-dead then I'll seed it for a couple of hours.

Prince Philip - March 10, 2019, 9:18 pm

I don't seed. I'm a greedy asshole, sure.

GiraffeBear - March 10, 2019, 9:20 pm

I don't seed at all because I seldom torrent myself.

Athr - March 10, 2019, 10:05 pm

Depends on the number of seeders. If its <10 and a rare torrent I'll seed indefinitely.

Seed popular games and TV shows till 3:1. I seeded ~1.5 TB on a popular TV show once. Crazy.

lukenova - March 10, 2019, 10:11 pm

I use private tracker sites for most of my torrenting, and I have a seedbox, so I leave most things seeding for at least a week or two.

If I find something rare that only had a few seeds to start with, I will leave it going indefinitely until I need the hard drive space on the seedbox for something else.

jascorp - March 10, 2019, 10:40 pm

Drug Problems - March 11, 2019, 2:25 am

If its a private tracker I will seed it for like 2-3 days if its a public one like PB then I don't seed it ever because I don't wanna risk a ISP notice

I never seed, fuck everyone else.

b?xxy - March 11, 2019, 10:32 am

I seed torrents for around an hour or two after I'm done with them.

Fallenour - March 11, 2019, 10:44 am

I usually try to maintain a 1:3 ratio of download to upload, that way I give more than I get. It costs me next to nothing to do so. I am however looking for another site to download from thats private invite only. I used to be a member of one that had its site hidden on a false page, but I forgot my credentials and the web page I didnt it for so long.

extreme1owning - March 11, 2019, 5:49 pm

Usually don't seed at all unless there was 1-10 seeds

Pyro - March 11, 2019, 5:55 pm

Not since I used IPT ?.

OLOY - March 12, 2019, 6:04 am

I'm only on CGPersia private tracker, which requires seeding, so I always do to not get banned ^^

Yin Yang - March 12, 2019, 6:14 am

If you're a good citizen, you'll seed as long as you can on particularly uncommon torrents. For the torrents that have lots of seeders, I would bug off as I'm not accomplishing anything.
