

Forum:Hack Forums

Thread: Problem with long math questions

SIM-3092053 - March 11, 2019, 1:19 pm

I find myself having to use an entire sheet of paper for one math (Calculus) question for like most of the questions and it's annoying because if i'm ever trying to refer back to a question that I already did, I'd have to flip through so many pages just to find it smh. Just wondering if anyone else has this same problem.

I guess it's more a problem of me being unorganized lol

UrLocalNewbie - March 11, 2019, 2:09 pm

Yup i had this problem alot. In fact the last math course i had (was linear algebra). I remember solving a question that took close to 3.5 pages and then i was shocked when i know from the colleagues 1 year older than me that this question was included in their exam (past year's exam). I went back to check that exam and take a look at the other question. It was brutal, i'm not sure what the fuck they did to piss the professor off that much that she'd include about 4 or 5 questions that require from 1.5-3 pages each to solve. Their exam was completely unmatched with the given time for the exam (2 hours).

To be honest, i didn't really end up with a good grade (passed tho), but the fact that i'm not taking any classes with her again made me forget how awful my grade was