Thread: Weird things that somebody else thinks are normal

Has this ever happened to you?

From what I can recall, I've seen small things like having shoes on in bed, having the heating off in winter but also getting to know a Jehovah's witness was very weird to me.. (as of the things they believe in and what they have to do)

Any "normal" things that you think are odd?

Any "normal" things that you think are odd? Sitting down in the shower seems real weird to me, But apparently a lot of people actually do it, wouldn't say it's normal but it's certainly got relevance to some people.

Also, people wiping their butt. Some people go from back to front and others go front to back. Like I am 25 years old and I had no idea, the fuck?

I guess one would be pissing in the shower? I can barely bring myself to do it unless I absolutely have to.

Oh yeah, there's plenty of things including personal hygiene.. for me for example I think it's normal to wash your bum with water after pooping. For other people however, it's something unheard of. I wash myself every time I'm done in the toilet if I'm at home though.. Some people were a bit weirded out by this.

I feel like with washing your bum with water is still pretty normal but very unusual in Europe or US.

Done it a million times when i was out of toilet paper. Not really that weird.

I can't take a proper shit unless i fully take of my pants and underwear, hate when that shit is pulling on my ankles.

I think it's odd that men all stand together side by side at urinals to urinate. Not like I give a shit or have any anxiety about it but sometimes in my head I think it's just such a weird thing.

I think this sums up what I find weird. <https://www.bbc.com/news/magazine-25848800>

It's against the code to stand next to someone at the urinal

What kind of mongrels do you piss with?

Good point, lol. IDK myself why I can't do it all the time.

I had a friend who'd sometimes wash his body using a bidette. Like, after shampooing he'd use that thing. I saw him when we were kids. I use it to wash my butt, but apparently it was normal in their household.

Monogamous relationships are pretty weird imho. Like, you pick a girl/guy you fancy and you hang around them more than other people. Like wtf
