Thread: Junk threads removed from uber

Paradoxal™ - March 27, 2019, 10:32 am

Is there a legit reason this was removed? I have so many old LQ threads I want gone and even when the feature was here it was only every 48 hours so I was barely able to remove them in the first place.

Now "mentors" have the ability to junk threads so am i able to request a thread to be junked? If not this should be added there is no logical reason it was removed

It was abused somehow so they decided to remove it.

Ub3r's were abusing the feature.

And Mentors are basically moderators, so of course they should have this ability.

How does this get abused? And I'm not saying they shouldn't have this ability. What they should have is a feature where I could submit a request to have 1 or more shitpost threads from years ago junked

People were mass junking everything which generally hurts SEO. We don't junk threads per user's request so don't bother asking. Think twice before you post something on the internet.
