

Forum:Hack Forums

Thread: how to read facebook messages?

fasma89 - March 28, 2019, 5:31 pm

Lets say i have hacked an facebook account. Is it possible to read his messages without the message notification icon to disappear?I dont want to get him to understand that someone else is reading his messages.

Sitrep - March 28, 2019, 7:00 pm

Nope, not really. That notification will launch as soon as you read it.

fasma89 - March 29, 2019, 7:32 pm

(Mar 28, 2019 07:00 PM)Sitrep Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Nope, not really. That notification will launch as soon as you read it.

isnt any way to suspend the notification launcher ?

Sitrep - April 2, 2019, 3:35 pm

(Mar 29, 2019 07:32 PM)fasma89 Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) isnt any way to suspend the notification launcher ?
Not that I'm aware of no. Your best bet is that it's an average user that doesn't check the mail often.

Queen24 - April 2, 2019, 6:05 pm

How did you hack it? I Can never Find The Right Info

vdkbd1 - April 3, 2019, 7:43 am

Phishing is the most certain way.

seker369 - April 3, 2019, 11:27 am

(Apr 2, 2019 06:05 PM)Queen24 Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) How did you hack it? I Can never Find The Right Info

Keylogging or phishing are the best ways I know of.

Someone I knew made an exact copy of a facebook page that linked to a usefull site (was send by friends so most trusted it) that said:

You are leaving Facebook and going to an http page (not secured).

Are you sure?

please enter your login again to make sure that you want this.

[username] [password]

[IamSure]

It was made like a fb page, but running on his server so he actually took all data.

=> MANY FELL FOR IT! <=

You just need to know peoples weak spot! Like if its about special shoes etc, many woman will fall for it, if its about gaming many gamers, as long as you make sure that theres a reason why its http! otherwise some will get suspicious! reason: no login or security needed, theres nothing to hack etc besides doing it for fun so who cares

fasma89 - April 3, 2019, 1:45 pm

The thing is how can i read the messages without the victim get noticed it.

D3mian - April 6, 2019, 10:01 am

If the person is not online at the time you're about to read the messages, you could read them and mark them again as "unread" (Mark as unread, to the right of every conversation)

fasma89 - April 17, 2019, 4:13 pm

(Apr 6, 2019 10:01 AM)D3mian Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) If the person is not online at the time you're about to read the messages, you could read them and mark them again as "unread" (Mark as unread, to the right of every conversation)yeah but the "new message icon" it dissappears from his profile when you read it.

Sawdey45 - April 17, 2019, 10:01 pm

Can you do this for me? Hack into a facebook account?

absojedi - April 18, 2019, 12:49 am

(Apr 17, 2019 04:13 PM)fasma89 Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) yeah but the "new message icon" it dissappears from his profile when you read it.

It deissappears only for the current session. If you delete cache and cookies and log back in it will show it. I'm not a 100% sure but when I was using facebook I remember being annoyed by these notifications even thou I have read the message but marked it as "unread"

CaseyMillerMission - May 1, 2019, 2:48 pm

Unable to unless the owner has seen it. If you found another way, let me know.