What's the guarantee it will work?

If you submit a document and your services do not work, people will get kicked out of university.

There's no second attempts with this.

Are there any way you could prove this works?

Probably a bad idea to trust some random with important stuff like this. Unless you wanna lose everything you worked for.

I totally get your point.

Personally, I do not have subscription for all the checkers as of now. But, I have tested it on them at some point of time and they have worked flawlessly. The guarantee is mine.

At the same time, nobody is going to get kicked out of university because of this. The checkers are for you to check first and then submit. You can always re-send it to the checker for another check and universities cannot kick you out on this basis. The reason is simple, if you write a whole paragraph by yourself there's still a slight possibility (even if slight) that some site on the internet itself might have it. Universities cannot kick you out on that basis, they will just ask you to amend it and resend it.

Just to be extra sure, I always test the document by sending it to the plagiarism software that I myself have a subscription for to make sure that the users of my services do not face any trouble whatsoever.

However, for the sake of demonstration, you could use the free versions of one of these checkers listed above and see if they catch any plagiarism.

If you need any further help, I am there to answer your questions. I have been using this technique since I was in high-school, college and still using it in my university. It works everywhere, all the time.

Well just saying, you won't lose anything. Debug your own paper, if you're satisfied with the result then submit. Plagiarism checkers are provided by universities to give YOU the report first and then the teachers. You are supposed to remove the plagiarism if there exists any before submitting it to your university. In case your university is not equipped with this facility, you may check it online by yourself. I will do it by using the checker that I have a subscription for and provide a report to you for the same.

Well, it is a giveaway, so you can participate and I'm sure you will be convinced. Just copy paste anything random from the internet and send it to me. I'm sure I'll be able to convince you by providing the reports and the document itself.

I'm sorry but this is a forum to make your life a bit easier. "Hacks" are literally immoral and if you are talking about morality here then its time for us to demarcate the line between Positive and Normative, what should be done and what is possible. Most of the threads/posts here, as you see, are of immoral nature. Then why'd you make an account here. See my point?
