Database lookups on 1.02 Billion email:password combos

Hey HF,

I'm offering Ub3rs and L33ts a very special service today. I recently obtained a copy of the Collection #1 data breach and have spent the last few days wrangling the hundreds of gigabytes of data into a B-Tree data structure, which is stored in my MongoDB instance. Thanks to these dataset optimizations, I'm able to offer a unique service to my fellow HF users. I will check if your email is in the database and let you know which of your passwords have been leaked. I will check up to 5 unique email addresses for you, completely free.

Standard grep search on full dataset: 2 hours and 34 minutes

Optimized B-Tree search 3 milliseconds

Request form Quote:List of email addresses to check (Up to 5):

I verify that I have permission to check these accounts (Yes/No): Post this in the thread, PM it to me, or add me on Discord.

If you're interested in obtaining the full database, DM me on Discord.

I wasn't sure if this is against HF policy, but if it is, feel free to let me know and I'll take down the thread. Thanks.

Not giving info on specific DB details. Only providing a email-to-pass lookup service.
