I am not so sure if it was ever answered and I couldn't find it however I have some bytes in ETC and I can't sell it "The specified coin does not exist or is not able to be sold at this time."

Same happened with LTC any many other coins in the past.
Is there any solution or fix or why is that happening? When is it going to be enabled?

Thanks

Yeah i have 1 BNB coin stuck that i can't sell aswell

luke - April 7, 2019, 9:32 am

Some coins were disabled by Omni I believe.

Shows under maintenance for me, suggestive to the fact these error(s) may be solved shortly , although it may be an entirely different reason that I am unaware of.

Yeah, it just showed up. Wasn't like that 5 minutes ago.

I may be wrong, but maybe you reminded somebody of it when you posted this thread ;) Haha

Assets get suspended when trading hits a certain percentage change. This is done to prevent abuse of fluctuations in pricing. We poll valuations every 5 minutes. So let's say an asset is at $1 and you see it spike to $1.15. On HF in the game it's still at $1 though until our pricing updates and you can buy a lot of it then sell it for that 15% profit or more even. And on days with huge spikes this can be abused for huge percentage gains.

So our fix is a temporary suspension of trading on assets over a certain percentage gain.

I lift all suspensions periodically.

Oh okay, I thought the same.

However sometimes it gets suspended for few days and so we can't sell it. LTC has been disabled for ~1 week.

Now it's under maintenance do you know when it's going to back up?

Thanks

So you must be consistently profiting from crypto game. Why don't more people have their bytes in there?

Once you put it in you need it to sit there for long term though? I thought it was like 30 minutes you could withdrawal. You talking about just time needed to profit off it?

I checked this morning in Australia and I believe it was offline then. Nearly 12 hours down? I'm not sure.
