Over the years I've gotten requests to add features to this. So this is a modified version with some of the features I found to possibly be useful.

Made this to help another user. I misunderstood his needs. I figured why let it go to waste. Very simple application. Double click the text boxes and select your lists, It will combine them in a "user:pass" format. Haven't tested it with large lists so use caution.

I believe you can achieve this using UltraEdit very easily, there is some inbuilt functions for this already.

Sad to see you probably spent so much time on it after not being needed by the user. I have had this happen with past websites I created for clients and it is very annoying.

Probably. As someone who developed many crackers and related tools in the past however, You'd be surprised how many times this has been requested. And it barely took any time. The code is very simplistic and not very optimized.
