Thread: Looking to start a business \(big budget\)

Reformed - April 11, 2019, 12:17 pm

I've made a few post similar to this and still haven't found a partnership yet.

Basically I'm looking for a partner who is willing to start a business with me. I will be funding the project with my own money I just need a partner who has a great idea and is willing to make a huge business with me.

Budget: $10,000 but willing to put more if the business is successful

I want something new and no bull shit business that will scam kids. I want to make a real business that will be actually worth money someday.

Sadly I have to disagree. This is only if you want short-term gains and no do not have a long term goal to make money.

Some people simply want to contribute more to this world. Such as creating jobs or careers available for others, allowing them to save money for car,, home stuff like this. Growing and supporting many families around your communities within your country. Perhaps taking a nice business loan and making a good amount back for your country in taxes. Supporting and growing the economy within your country, things like this.

Black hat is definitely not "the way to go" if you ask me.

I know several people on here that runs legitimate business' alongside their life on HF.

I myself, run a legal business along with my studies.

We can do start a business together that is semi-auto. It will start making money as soon as the business is fully set-up in the location I have choosen, and with the legal documents. It does require physical place to exist, it is related to food and drinks. I am sure you will guarantee a fair split between us, once you get your money back and more I will help you start yours and we can create our line of income in many places. We just need to physically re-fill the food and drinks which can be done by me. Let me know if you are interested!

Hello mate, I have a business idea which can easily be scaled to 10 000$ + monthly minimum with some small investment

I am currently earning 3000-4000$ with it monthly with making a small investment

The method can be scaled really well but I am not aware how much it will cost as I got no experience in this field which will help us grow even more

If you are interested send me a PM so we can discuss it

Thanks !

10K is not enough to start a "real" business

01001 - April 12, 2019, 11:32 am

I have some great ideas, check your inbox.

Nostalgic - April 12, 2019, 1:13 pm

It all depends on what you'd like to do. Or more what you are interested in. I'd like to add that if you need help or any ideas of what to start you could PM me. I would be more than happy to talk for a bit and maybe become partners. I myself would recommend the IT or the retail business right now.

I don't have any propositions for you, but ignore the people telling you your budget is too small to start a "real" business. You can easily turn that 10k into six figures depending on your skill set.

if you are going to start a real company you need more than 10K take it from someone who started his own company

So your saying just cuz u started a business with more money invested means everyone has to? I've seen someone start a business with 2k. And guess what? He is making 6 figures a month now.

And this is to anybody else thinking 10k isnt enough to start a business. It is def enough.

idk how its in the US but you gotta pay social securitys (idk what the correct basic term is), you gotta do marketing and another shit ton of costs. Some are even gonna need a building etc. If its an online business 2K is enough but thats not what i ment with that.

Also there is nothing wrong with having extra money always keep in mind what if shit goes wrong dont take a leap of faith.
