Thread: Buying into a Group

Alyx - April 18, 2019, 2:59 pm

Looking to buy into a group on here (Official Group of course) as I'm new here and wanting to make some new friends and have a nice looking profile, I will pay with bitcoin, or does anyone know any groups that are selling them?

Thanks.

Sorry. Didn't mean to offend you. One would believe that a guy who sells several e-books all claiming to make thousands each month wouldn't have to lowball every award sale he sees.

I got my awards sold at $100 each which was what I asked from you. But that didn't fit your budget seeing as the only online income you have seems to be from selling public methods. One would believe you would use your own methods to make money, if they indeed did work. But oh well. Have a nice day sir, sorry for the inconvenience.

Also for everyone in Wolfpack. I hope you guys don't take it as bad as Bromden. I am obviously joking. After seeing one of your leaders joking about infamous in another thread I thought it was a thing we had going. Apparently someone believes that jokes are a one way thing.

I wish all my buddies from Wolfpack a nice day, I like and respect a lot of you.

Thank you for your offer sir. However I will have to decline seeing as your crew has a somewhat bad reputation because of one owner screwing the other one over.

Hope you get it sold though, as it certainly didn't turn out as you would hope. Have a nice day.

I always thought buying into a group was a bit stupid because you can lose access so easily if they sell the group.

Yeah, you gotta make sure they've been around for awhile beforehand.

That's why you asked for an invite?

Interesting.

A lot of groups have buy-ins, in fact I'd say most do if you talk to the right people for the right price.

This and also I've never liked the fact of buying friends, it feels that way to me when I see buy ins. I never have and never will.

If that group invited you due to a specific reason however, that's a totally different story.

Interesting.

I wanted to know how to get into such group. Never asked to be invited, Also I take back the motion I stated as I was given false information by a closed user.
