I could do this depending on what languages you need. I don't deal with python or any other scripting languages

Probably it would be easier if you post a short description of what you are looking to code and in what language.

There is a lot of different coders around HF ones specialized in one thing others in another.

Kind Regards ?

Definitely not the right way to start such a thread. It would be biased as hell and the feedback you would get wouldn't even be that accurate for what you, potentially, need.

Just post project details. ?

Use the correct Marketplace forum category to either find a coder or post your need for one.
