aN0nPtr8 - April 26, 2019, 3:15 pm

Hello guys, i'm new here and new to this "idea" of hacking. I'm here to learn and to develop my skills. Any recommendations on where to start or what threads are a good intro for this hacking activity?

You can go to the first tab Hack and browser that section.

Welcome to hackforums! I wish you the best. If you still haven't read the Help Docs which is really a must, I suggest you read it right now by going here. It will equip you with enough knowledge to be able to browse the forum properly and be able to abide/follow the forum rules. If you are going to buy/sell something in the marketplace, I recommend you to read this first before doing so. Good luck! If you need any friend to talk to, you can always PM me, also if you have some questions about the forum, you can ask me as well.

It's great that you're feeling motivated to learn. I would start by learning a programming language. What field are you looking to go into?
