Thread: My experience as a bot farmer

Luck 2 - May 1, 2019, 7:14 am

Hi guys! quick disclaimer, I'm typing all of this on my mobile but I felt like sharing my experience in the botting world and what you can accomplish even within a week, month, years etc..

- I'm going to upload pictures and everything once I'm able to be at my computer.

The most important thing before jumping into bot farming is to PLAN AHEAD. I mean calculate buy/sell demands, which alt skill will be the most profitable and the most Swift, plan to invest into SOCK proxies or VPN's. Find good private scripts, and there's so much more.

I run a 30 account bot farm (all members paid by 14 day recurring bonds). I've been running all of them for a few months with few bans, I have 5 accounts to every Proxy.

expect to be banned. Use a mule account to hold/transfer funds and material.. mule accounts have a very low risk of ban but it is still possible.

The Proxy I use: Proxyfish

I run my account with different sleep cycles. I run 15 accounts from 12PM to 12AM. I have some run double runes for me and hunt black/red chins. And then I rotate the 15 bots out with the other set of accounts to avoid suspicious activity on the accounts to jagex.

Q: how many tutorial island account do you have ready to use Incase of bans?

A: I have 54 account ready to be used to replace bots

Q: should I get free scripts?

A: No, if you want to make serious money with a much lower ban risk, buy private or code your own.

Q: how much can touch earn in a day?

A: I'll just say I make well over 50 mil a day :)

Q: how long have you been running bot farms?

A: I've been coding and also using private scripts for about 2 years

Pictures are coming with proof of profit, earnings by the hour, and my calculations that I write before I do anything on my Notepad++

Have you found that longer the account has been created to time of botting the less likely the bans are to occur?

Absolutely. If you create an account and plan on botting on it within the first hour, in my experiences I've been banned every single time. I create accounts using different proxies and then wait 6-8 hours before doing anything to that account (even tutorial island)

Is older accounts, like RS3 accounts from way back more likely not to be banned when they sign up on OSRS? Or doesn't it matter if they're fresh or old.

Or doesn't it matter if they're fresh or old. Both RS3 and OSRS Have a lot of similarities between how each game goes about banning bots, (pretty much same algorithm). That being said, I'd just use my method of creating mass accounts from different proxies and then being safe after 6+ hours :)

How long do you usually have your accounts created before actual bot?
