Thread: Random Post Delete?

N1ghtm4re - May 1, 2019, 5:46 pm

Last night I got a design made by user Motusora, and I left a vouch on his thread. Today he messaged asking about it being deleted, to my confusion since I know I didn't delete it.

Any idea as to why it was deleted? I can always post it again but, just in case this might be a site problem and wasn't deleted for some other reason I thought I'd post it.

Let me know.

It may have been reported for some reason and deleted by a staff member, but looking at your 0% warning level I doubt it. If it was a vouch without you having the contracted customer tick, then that was a contract violation I suppose.

That's weird. We had a contract and both marked it as complete, how strange.

The only thing I can think of is the contract issue. If the contract was not connected to the thread that would mostly likely be the reason. If it was then I would message a staff member.

Was it linked to that exact thread ? If no that's probably why. I guess it's still not your fault as the seller should have noticed that and linked his thread to the contract.

Check the contract and see if it's linked to that thread, or you can try and post something on the same thread again if, the post does indeed contain the tick mark then you're all good and that means that the contract is linked to the thread otherwise it's not and just delete that post as it may just cause you a warning or something.

EDIT : This is the contract in question

<https://hackforums.net/contracts.php?action=view&cid=51400> Unfortunately it's not linked to any thread so that's why your vouch was deleted.(Contract violation : Needs to have the contracted customer tick)

If the contract doesn't have a thread link, you can't make a vouch on his thread.
