Is there any reliable keylogger for iPhone.

PS phone is not jailbreak

Elweth - May 3, 2019, 3:02 am

I have not heard of any non jb keylogger.

If the phones not jail broken you're not going to have any luck because the apps need to be signed by apple to work. It's not like a pc where you can just download anything and run it.

@OP just as he wrote you need to get your apps being signed if you want to run on a iphone. So the way you could approach that is that you design an app and get it trusted then after some while you implement a malware. May you even filter a specific user for this action. However thats some work but probably the way you could get it working.
