Thread: Plan on purchasing a domain from NameCheap anytime soon? Get 50% off!

debian - May 9, 2019, 12:01 pm

So I loaded my NameCheap account with funds a while back and I have extra credit of which I will never use (About $50 worth).

If you plan on purchasing a domain/multiple domains anytime soon, please consider this offer:

1. I will purchase the domain you desire from namecheap with my funds.
2. I will transfer the domain to your namecheap account for free using the "Transfer to another namecheap account" tool.
3. You pay me 50% of what the domain(s) cost in BTC.

Would love if anyone helped me out here.

Cheers! ?

EDIT: Didn't know that there was any risk in this (that you could do a take-back of the money used) so I changed it to only 50% now

Your account is new, and someone did this same thing a while back, and literally a month later, domain was canceled (most likely chargedback or stolen funds) and I was then invoiced for the cost of the domain if I wanted it. Even if you transfer it to a different account it still transfers that payment aswell, as soon as it becomes invalid you gotta pay for it.

If anyone wants to pay normal price with bitcoin (considering Namecheap is by far the cheapest and globally used) you can simply add your BTC to your Namecheap account wallet.

Oh damn, I didn't realize that you could even do that. I guess that makes sense though. Well I guess I'll just spend the credit myself or wait until I have a stronger HF account

Better use it for your own blogs and learn something with that

Is there any fee for that?

Nope - internal namecheap transfers are free
