a null route occurs from the hosting company, and usually only if its a shared network, so just hit it with something big doesn't matter what protocol you use and you should be good.

The purpose of this forum is not to discuss committing crime. DDOS is illegal and not allowed. Go to the bottom of the thread and close it.

That's autistic. It's hypothetical that's really lame. So I can't talk about anything illegal? I never said i was going to commit a crime. Ok dad I will go to the bottom of this thread and close it at once.

Maybe OP wants to null route his server, what about that?
