mvmt - May 17, 2019, 6:38 pm

UPDATE: I have created a private group for all of my students and started producing video content to go along with the mentorship. I show my CURRENT STORE LIVE and will be producing new videos regularly on various subjects suggested by my students - this will greatly enhance the quality of my mentorship.

(Aug 2, 2019 06:24 AM)yexa Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Mvmt mentorship has been a great learning experience for me. I was skeptical at first about purchasing the mentorship, because we know how HF can be. Right after I paid we started working on developing my store. Mvmt helped me every step of the way providing me with guidelines to find the winning product. After developing my store, we started focusing on advertisements. Mvmt knowledge on how to market your product is very impressive, where without his help this would take you ages to figure out. After my second day of having my store up, I started to receive profit. Since then my store is growing in a positive direction, as we tweak variables every day. What I have learned from this mentorship, will help me beyond just ecommerce. I would recommend this mentorship to anyone that can afford it and has an interest in dropshipping.

This mentorship requires effort and dedication to really excel. Mvmt will help you every step of the way if you put in the necessary amount of work. The reward for your work can be very promising. If you have any questions feel free to send me a PM.

Only up from here ?

(Oct 14, 2019 07:52 AM)Winds Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Vouch for mvmt.

I started a store 2-3 weeks ago and already passed 100 orders. According to my P&L I make $100-$200 profit per day which is pretty good considering the fact that we're just getting started and our ad spend is very low at the moment.

Can't wait to start scaling though, we're in the process of finding the best creative and once we find one we'll start scaling and go big.

As for mvmt, the guy really knows his Clay Davis with ecom and you can notice that the minute you start talking to this guy. He's super chill, responding pretty fast and really cares about his students.

Will update with my earnings once we scale.

(Oct 31, 2019 08:38 AM)iMario Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) My last 7 days, new store. mvmt strategies and knowledge WILL get you sales and open the door for creating something good for yourself.

Some of you may remember me from my previous Amazon FBA mentorship program, however I've recently ventured into Shopify Dropshipping and found a great amount of success with it so far. I've always had a passion for teaching and helping others make money which is why I've decided to offer my knowledge to only a few select people each month. I will literally be teaching you everything from start to finish, sharing with you all my strategies and exactly how I run my own stores. Due to my poor previous experiences on this forum, I ask that you only contact me if you are serious about making money online - I don't have time for lazy people.

Most updated results, $170,000 revenue in July:

What you will be learning through the course of this mentorship:How to easily find winning products

Properly setting up your website

Creating effective advertisements for Facebook

My exact Facebook ad strategy

Optimizing your website/advertising to increase conversions

How to completely automate your store

Various tips and "hacks" such as utilizing your store to travel around the world for free

The greatest part about my strategy is that it is easily replicable, meaning you can use this strategy on future products/stores that you will create and it doesn't require dozens of hours just to create your website. As shown by my results, this business can take off very fast once you have found a winner. This brand new store was doing $1,000+ daily sales after only 5 days. Shopify stores are also incredibly easy to scale because Facebook's algorithm is doing most of the work for you, the main reason so many people end up failing is because they have no idea what they are doing and don't have proper guidance to help them succeed.

Pricing Information:

ONLY 5 students per month - $1,500 per person

This may seem like a "high" price, but I'm telling you now that you will not find an offer like this anywhere else. Most Shopify gurus on YouTube/social media charges upwards of $1,000 for their courses and 99% of these people don't even actually sell on Shopify. I'm completely transparent on how much I'm currently earning and have no problem with proving it to you. If you're serious about e-commerce and entrepreneurship, get in contact with me and I promise it will be worth your time. The price I am charging is nothing compared to the potential upside.

Once the spots are full, you will have to wait until I have more positions open or you can go ahead and reserve your spot for the next batch of 5 people.

Feel free to PM me or post here if you have any questions or would like more information.

FAQ:

Spoiler (Click to View)

How much money do I need to invest?

I recommend starting with around $500, the only thing you will actually be spending money on is Facebook ads. Everything else can be done on your own for free.

How long will it take to start making a profit?

My most recent store started making profit after only 3 days. As stated previously, this business can move very fast and can be scaled very fast.

How much work will this require from me?

The setup of the store itself is all done on your own time. Once your store is up and running, you will only need to spend a few hours a week for optimization and various management.

Lol, well after you pay him $1,500 your going to need additional money (he used $70k) and made $19k in 30 days I assume running facebook ads etc.. so theoretically if he did teach you for free you would still make no money lmao gotta have money to make money.

Correct,

You must have money to make money in this game.

If you have nothing in hand, You'll be fucked up by facebook ads itself ?

I did not spend $70k on Facebook ads lol as I stated in the FAQ, you need roughly $500-$1k for initial investment.

And you're right, you absolutely need to spend money to make money. This is true for pretty much any business venture

You don't have to talk to anyone, fulfilling orders will be completely automated. $1k a month is incredibly reasonable, my most recent store made that within the first week and that was before I even started scaling it. There are no requirements, and you don't need to know how to make websites.

That's not how this business works unfortunately lol there are way too many factors for someone to just "get lucky with one product." Finding a good product is the easy part, from then you must focus on market research, website optimization, creating custom media, and the hardest part: Facebook advertising. You don't do all of this correctly by luck.

Not to mention I'm at over $60K since the beginning of May:

I appreciate the offer but sorry man, I can't do any sort of deal like this. Not risking providing this valuable of information up front, just to have someone take off and never pay me. My price point is fairly high, I don't expect to have tons of students/vouches because there are not many people who are willing to invest in themselves.

You can see I am an honest client due to my previous comments about my experience with his FBA service.

I have just purchased this Shopify mentorship to give mvmt another chance. I already am experienced with Shopify and hopefully learn a new and unique scaling method from him.

I will post updates on this thread regularly to keep those interested in purchasing updated.

I totally agree lol HF is not a place full of real business owners, 99% of people on here are faking it just so they can sell a service.

I'm fully transparent with my business, I have no problem showing live proof of earnings or whatever.

The revenue for your sales is paid out daily, so you would just use the revenue to cover the fulfillment costs for that day. Having a credit card also has several benefits for cashflow, including all the rewards points you rack up (I get 3% cashback on my adspend).

(Jun 17, 2019 07:15 AM)DrRespect Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) How much of that is profit?

I won't speak for him, but I will say that some stores take longer to turn a profit than others. My store broke even after just the first 3 days. For other stores, it requires a lot more testing on FB ads. You are essentially buying data, the more data you have the more accurate and profitable your ads will be. For Zanik's store, it got off to a very slow start so we've had to do a lot of testing to get things off the ground. Over the past few days the store has been profitable, but overall they have not broken even yet.

Their store's profitability is rising as time goes on and that's all that matters. With my product research methods, we are pretty much 100% certain that the products we pick are winners. It's just that some products take longer than others to get off the ground.

As I don't have access to Shopify's payment process. And Stripe pays weekly and not daily.

Yes, I can show you plenty of processors other than Shopify Payments. However, Shopify does not have anything against dropshipping if you are doing things legitimately and honestly. They will step in and close your account if you are making dishonest claims about your shipping times / the product / etc. I teach my students to do things by the book so they can have a legitimate, sustainable business.

Like I said, that particular person hasn't broken even yet. Some stores can take longer to break even than others. My most recent store for example, it only took me 3 days to break even and then I was doing $1K+ daily after the first week. If you have a winner, it's more likely that it only takes a few days rather than a few weeks.

Average profit margins for dropshipping can be anywhere from 15-40%, it just depends on the product and market.

Did around $100 in sales but the product was not good.

mvmt taught me a lot that i didn't know though i will use his methods whenever i test products from now on i can say mvmt knows his shit if you have the money for the mentorship and around another $1,000 to test on products you should be able to find a winner and succeed in drop shipping but it really all comes down to setting up your store properly, finding a winning product, and having a unique video ad.

To clarify on MMLF's experience, I am not done mentoring him. No one should expect to immediately have success on their very first product; I'm not saying that it isn't possible, because it most definitely is, but no one should expect to come in and have their first product be a huge winner because that is not how business works whatsoever.

If you stick to the strategies I provide and stay consistent with your work, you will 100% succeed.

Mvmt mentorship has been a great learning experience for me. I was skeptical at first about purchasing the mentorship, because we know how HF can be. Right after I paid we started working on developing my store. Mvmt helped me every step of the way providing me with guidelines to find the winning product. After developing my store, we started focusing on advertisements. Mvmt knowledge on how to market your product is very impressive, where without his help this would take you ages to figure out. After my second day of having my store up, I started to receive profit. Since then my store is growing in a positive direction, as we tweak variables every day. What I have learned from this mentorship, will help me beyond just ecommerce. I would recommend this mentorship to anyone that can afford it and has an interest in dropshipping.

This mentorship requires effort and dedication to really excel. Mvmt will help you every step of the way if you put in the necessary amount of work. The reward for your work can be very promising. If you have any questions feel free to send me a PM.

It's not required but having more capital available is never a bad thing. It won't necessary make your performance any better than others, however it will allow for you to scale faster than others because you can easily manage the cash flow.

I don't find products for you, but I teach you exactly how I easily find winning products. I will also verify whether or not the product is good before you start to sell it.

As explained in the thread, I teach you literally everything that I do from start to finish. My exact strategies for finding winning products, setting up your website, my strategies for FB ads, scaling your store, etc. I don't provide videos or PDFs or anything like that, I personally walk you through it 1-on-1 to ensure you're doing it correctly from the start.

1500$ is a lot of money, it would be good to see atleast half of your students making profit. The others haven't even started ads yet, they're still building out their websites or looking for a product. I don't control how fast/slow people work.

I provide the same information to each student, it is up to you to put in the work and use that information efficiently. This isn't some money making method where everyone does the exact same thing, you're building an online business here. I can assure you that if you're motivated enough, you will turn this into a profitable business.

Yexa is proof of that, he literally made his money back in a week and is now making consistent profit daily. The $1,500 I charge is nothing compared to how much you'll potentially be making.

Yes it is possible, not ideal but definitely possible. I know people doing 6 figures monthly without PayPal on their store.

Your ads will be running from the business pages you create for your store.

I don't know why you would wanna use WC over Shopify lol they don't even compare, Shopify is 10X better. If you really wanted to then sure, but I highly advise against it Absolutely, my mentorship is tailored for anyone regardless of previous experience - even if you're a complete beginner.

Just joined this program today. Looking forward to working with mvmt, things sure look promising indeed!

mvmt - August 24, 2019, 10:26 am

I have recently created a private group for all of my students and will be regularly producing video content to go along with the mentorship. Some examples of the videos to come:

Showing my current store live and explaining how I found the product, how I set up my store, etc.
More in-depth overview of ad strategies and showing live examples and my personal results
Other various topics suggested by my students

There are now only 2 spots currently open, contact me if you are interested in joining.

yexa has take the final slot. The next opening will be on June 26th, contact me ASAP to reserve your spot if you want in.

The revenue for your sales is paid out daily, so you would just use the revenue to cover the fulfillment costs for that day. Having a credit card also has several benefits for cashflow, including all the rewards points you rack up (I get 3% cashback on my adspend).

Which card are you using for 3% Cashback? Wow. Ahah and I thought my 2% was outrageous.
Good luck with sales.

Hi mvmt, I am interested in purchasing a spot for mentorship. Are you able to please send me a personal message with off-site contact details for faster means of communication? Thanks in advance.

billybonkers - September 3, 2019, 7:24 am

Would be more interested if it wasn't because it's been 3 months with only 1 student reporting back iMario - September 3, 2019, 11:46 am

Not first time I see someone asking why no student is reporting back like the post above mine, so here's my input on this. I can definitely say it's not the mentorship that's lacking. It's just every student goes to his own pace. It takes time to setup everything because mvmt makes sure you do everything right. No mistakes allowed. Not only that but you will go through road blocks almost guaranteed, for example Facebook disapproves your ads after a few days and you have to wait days for them to answer back. So it takes time before every student can get the chance to get back. But if you're a hard worker, you can setup everything rather quickly and start earning within a month.

I bought this mentorship around a month ago. What motivated me is mostly the fact that I knew a little mvmt before and I could quickly tell that he cares. So I just went for it. Here's my quick review of this mentorship so far.

Knowledge: mvmt knows what the fucck he's talking about. I've done eCommerce in the past and sold for over 100k in the course of a year. I felt like I knew nothing working with mvmt. I've learned a ton and I keep learning every day. I've got a lot to learn. He's not a one hit wonder, he has many winning projects so his knowledge is proven.

Mentorship: response time as super fast. I've had bad experiences in the past where people I paid would answer me once every few days. mvmt answers super fast. Maximum I've waited is 3-4 hours, I mean after all, he has a life to live. I appreciate it a lot that he answers fast. He cares about you getting results. He made a group chat for all his students, he posts motivational content and posted private videos for us, for example showcasing his 6 figures store. He's a well-spoken guy, I don't think you'd have trouble understanding what he's saying. He doesn't forget. Might sound like a silly thing to say but it's very appreciated when a business owner remember his clients and what they are working on. Imagine having to remind someone everyday what was your store is and such.

Results: Obviously what everyone wants to see. I've only started ads for a few days so I need some more time but I'll be posting my results very soon. I'm about breaking even right now.

Overall: So far I'm very happy to work with mvmt. I have the feeling that I'll be earning big very soon. I recommend him as a mentor.

mvmt is a good guy though, i worked with him on his amazon mentorship. he taught me a good amount in amazon, i didn't find success unfortunately in that. i pick a shitty product and got sued lmao. but i learned some good lessons!

i'd say a lot of my reason for being unsuccessful thus far is lack of patience. i rush steps. if you do move forward with the mentorship i recommend listening close to what mvmt says and really take your time to work at it i will hopefully comeback for a more positive and successful review when i get more time to work

I don't control how fast/slow people work, some have even flat out given up. It's up to you to put in the work and make use of the opportunity you are given with this mentorship. I just launched another store using the exact same strategies I'm teaching my students, already doing $4-$5k daily after 2 weeks.

Yes, not to sell a course but just because I would enjoy having a YT channel and making helpful content. That is currently in the works

My net profit is 20-30% daily, every now and then it will be lower if its a bad sales day.

Is there any reason you're selling this mentoring instead of just opening new stores that make the price of mentoring daily?

I mean sites that are verified to net 10k months sell for like 300k on empireflippers

I'm already doing this, as I stated in my previous post I just launched another store about 2 weeks ago and its already doing $4-$5k daily. EmpireFlippers has very strict criteria for websites they allow to be sold: 12+ months of consistent sales history, multiple products, dropshipping sites aren't allowed, etc.

I have a few reasons why I run a service like this: I have the time since my stores are 95% automated, extra income, and building a network of other e-commerce sellers. Plus I enjoy teaching and helping others create an income from something I'm passionate about.

Hey mvmt, I am highly interested in your mentorship since this would be pretty awesome to be able to understand the world of e-commerce + entrepreneurship and open doors to network with some highly knowledgeable and talented people who also do the same. I am wondering, is your payment all in full or are you willing to be more negotiable on some type of payment term? I just want to know because I don't really have that mindset that if I can't make as much as you have within a certain time span (since that simply just takes a lot of time, experience and hard work putting in the hours needed to grow mentally and personally) but want to at least know if I am guaranteed to make back as much as I have put in. Also, how do you deal with taxes on this sort of stuff or is that something you don't provide input and I should possibly consider talking to an accountant for that?

Thanks.

Thanks for your interest man. Firstly, I only take the full payment up front, and this is for several reasons: there's no need for me to subject myself to the risk of someone not paying me down the line because they would rather give up, all my other students paid in full so its only fair to keep it that way, and also the fact that if you pay me the full amount up front you will be much more likely to succeed since you are making a much larger commitment. If someone only paid me a certain portion and they knew down the line they could just give up without having to pay me the rest, I'm only gonna get a half-ass effort out of them and that doesn't benefit either of us. If you want success, you have to be fully committed.

You should most definitely have the mindset that you can make as much as me, if not more, since you are literally using the same strategies I am and are basically taking a fast-track course from beginner to "expert." My mentorship takes out the months and months of trial and error, spending tons of money trying to learn on your own, etc. I can't provide you guarantees, and if anyone says they will then they're lying to you. There are no guarantees in legitimate business, trying to find the perfect business/investment opportunity will get you no where.

For taxes, its not something you need to worry about until your earnings become more serious. At that point, I would advise getting an accountant because after all, you are running a serious business. Accounting for ecommerce businesses is not expensive, I have one myself and its a very small expense to save you tons of time and hassle and money.

I have two questions for you

1. Do you actually help your mentees pick out a winning product or do you find it for them? Alternatively, do you use a website that lists out potentially valuable products and send that site/the product to them?

2. Does your help "properly setting up a website" include optimizing for common tactics such as urgency? I am an extremely poor designer, and i don't have a single creative bone in my body. Any site i make would look horrific at best and i am wondering if you had any extra services that would include a site being designed for me.

I see you talk a lot about monthly slots, after the 30 days is up do the current mentees no longer get any advice from you?

Thanks.

1. I help you find products by showing you exactly how I do research and give you my clear list of criteria, I also show examples of winning products (even one of my own stores) to better help you get an idea of what to look for. Essentially, you'll send me the products you find and I'll review them, give you reasons why they're good/bad, and repeat this until we find something that is worth moving forward with. And no I don't use any of those websites with pre-listed "winning" products.

2. Yes, making an e-commerce store can sound like a daunting task but this is probably one of the easiest parts. I'll show you exactly how I set up my websites and like I said before, I'll even show you one of my own stores as an example. Trust me, the website portion should be the least of your worries. It's incredibly simple to build out a site on Shopify. I'm not going to build out the site for you even if you paid me to do so, it's best that you learn on your own rather than pay someone else to do it.

The 30-days is only so I can limit my inflow of students and make sure everyone gets enough time from me, I don't ever cut off support to any of my students, no matter how long. 30 days is just about how long it takes to get through the most time consuming parts and get you off the ground.

I've also created a private group for my students where I'm regularly producing video content that the students request. For example, I've previously made videos showing one of my stores, the statistics, explaining how I found the product, etc. The videos are just a supplemental part of my mentorship where you guys can request certain stuff and if I feel that it's worth making a video on, I'll do it.

Just released a new video to all my students in my private group where I showcase several winning products and explain what makes them winners and how you can apply the same logic to your own product research. These videos have been a great help in supplementing my mentorship, keep in mind I'll be regularly producing more videos as my students request them!

I'm Stanley HF's helper bot. This OP (original poster) of this thread wants everyone to see this page and has elected to bump it to the top of the showthread listing. Since HF doesn't want a ton of LQP (Low Quality Posts) this is the best method of bumping your content. There is a small ?yte fee for each bump. Any OP can bump any of their threads on HF from the linked icon on the top of their first post.

Vouch for mvmt.

I started a store 2-3 weeks ago and already passed 100 orders. According to my P&L I make $100-$200 profit per day which is pretty good considering the fact that we're just getting started and our ad spend is very low at the moment.

Can't wait to start scaling though, we're in the process of finding the best creative and once we find one we'll start scaling and go big.

As for mvmt, the guy really knows his shit with ecom and you can notice that the minute you start talking to this guy. He's super chill, responding pretty fast and really cares about his students.

Will update with my earnings once we scale.

Sent you a PM.

But to answer your question, this is going to depend on how efficient you are when working. Usually my students will get their store set up on the same day they find their product, potentially the following day - this really doesn't take long since I have a pretty specific system for how I set up my stores. There isn't really a specific timeframe for when you will break even, I have had students make profit on literally the first day and I have also had students who didn't profit until after a week of running ads.

thanks for the reply but you keep bumping this thread with the bot and saying only X spot left. So you clearly are looking for new students.

the fact your claiming people are scared to post proof on forum with a anon username sounds like some bullshit to me. 1 person broke even and hasn't come back to reply if he was in profit and then you have that one same old student that comes back with his proof.

it's not hard to ask in discord for proof and blur out their names, just saying sounds fishy GLWS

I have had multiple people recently post their earnings, not sure what you're going on about. I'm not claiming people are scared to post proof even when they are anonymous, some people just don't want to publicly display how much they're making - if you don't understand it, then at least don't be a prick about it.

The fact of the matter is, I have students earning and I have multiple successful stores myself. I provide all my students the same information and strategies that I use, whether or not you turn it into a success is on you buddy, not me. If you think purchasing my mentorship is a guaranteed way to make bank, you came to the wrong place. My mentorship is for people who are confident and dedicated enough to make something happen. If that's not you and you're just here to cause trouble, then quit wasting your time.

My main store did over $80k revenue last month and I'm launching another store within the next couple of days.

Instagram shout outs can be great with the right product/audience but it is not something that I focus on, FB/IG ads are way more efficient in terms of targeting and making use of your money. I would suggest starting with FB ads first and scaling, then you can switch to IG influencers once you have a proven product and know more about your audience.

Thanks

Yes you will be spending money each day on ads. There isn't a specific amount, we will start out at around $100/daily and then scale accordingly. Keep in mind that adspend is not a completely out of pocket expense, you will be reinvesting the revenue you get into scaling your ads. That's how people can start with only a $500 budget, and within a week they'll be spending $500/day.

I don't have a deadline, I work with them until they are comfortable with proceeding on their own. Even then, I will still stick around to answer any questions and help out where I can. E-Commerce is always changing, so I think it is best that I always stick around to keep my students in the loop of the most updated strategies and any big changes that are taking place.

after the 1500 i have an extra 1000 to use for ads, would that be fine by any chance? Thinking hard about buying your mentorship as i read through the thread and you seem like you care about your students. So very tempting.

Im also wondering if you do 1on1 voice calls with your students or you just do text between all of them? just good to know kinda how the process starts.

I can speak from personal experience, I got limited myself for a week and disabled Paypal in the meantime. I noticed a little drop in my conversion rate, however I was still extremely profitable so it wasn't a deal breaker. You can run it fine without Paypal

Like iMario said, there will be a slight reduction in your conversion rate but you can definitely manage without. If you have the means to use PayPal, then use it. A sudden influx of payments will simply cause PayPal to ask for some verification, they won't flat out limit you just because you're making money. You're running a legitimate business here, shipping physical items with tracking numbers, so you aren't going to get limited for using PayPal how it is intended.

With that being said, if you still don't want to use PayPal then you don't have to. I know plenty of big sellers who don't use PayPal on their store and manage just fine.

I'm wondering why a guy making $175k in a month, would sell his method for only $1k5. There is something weird.

There is 9/10 spot unavailable, so mathematically there is currently 9 people who could confirm that it's really beneficial. I would love to know your point of views guys.

Shopify isn't really a hidden method of income or anything , very public, tons of various people selling a mentorship to guide you through how the system works so you can make money. He's simply selling expertise he's built over the years.

Also if you think about it probably won't be more than 20~ dedicated hours with any one client, and then smaller amounts of follow up work.

$1.5k for that ain't bad considering shopify isn't a 100% involved process so he could have more time in the day to work.

This isn't some "method" where everyone does the exact same thing and it becomes saturated, I'm teaching you a real business model and using my expertise to guide you and prevent you from making the mistakes that I did early on. People constantly offer me money for consultations and to help guide them in this business, why would I not take advantage of that by starting my own mentorship service? It creates an extra income source for myself, I actually enjoy doing it, and I have enough free time to where I would be stupid not to do something like this.

About 27% net. I just touched 60k in sales for the week so 16k+ net profit and sunday is not done yet, I hope I can make a good 2k net profit until the end of the day. I've been doing dropshipping before but never had this success. I've been in the mentorship for about 4 months now.

I've already stated my net profit several times on this thread. Revenue is the easiest to display in a screenshot, I can't really post net profit unless you want to see my accounting statements? lol

Even showing my OrderMetrics info is not fully accurate because I have employees, but as I've said before its around 18% net profit.

Hey, not trying to beat around the bush here. Sounds like one of your students has had good results, but I have a few questions:

If you're actually making $30K profit a month, why would you bother spending any time mentoring people for a relatively cheap (I actually don't think it's that cheap, compared with some other stuff on this site) price? Couldn't you simply replicate your process(es) and run up even more potential profit?

How does your teaching/mentoring work? People have a loose usage/understanding of the word mentorship where they just give you a .pdf and call that a mentorship.

That's a method. Are you holding people's hands? Are we asking you questions, guaranteeing we'll get answers (with description?) back not just 'yeah, that'll work.'

Another important question, how much do we need to invest? Realistically, for ads and all that. From my research, this number continues to grow and competition in this market is getting higher and higher (harder to actually make decent profits).

He's already answered most of these questions in the original post + in the last few pages.

but to comment on your "(I actually don't think it's that cheap, compared with some other stuff on

Yeah I read through the first 10 and noticed not much. It seems like he has a bunch of people he's mentoring (Dropshipping or other services) with minimal posts of how great his service(s) are. My comment was actually that it's a decent price, not too expensive for me ... But cheap for how much he claims to be making. This is something I've 100% been interested in getting into, I feel as if I've waited too long -- as now it's more competitive and a money sink in ads (I know, "unless you do it correctly"). I think mentorship is the way to go these days, but I also know how HackForums does their threads/mentorship/people. Been scammed several hundreds of dollars on this site ($500 was my last one ?) and I like to keep coming back to donate to more scammers.

Regardless, I just don't see why this exists if he's making as much money as he claims to be making. Very few people genuinely want to "teach others" when they're making this much, you want to make more...

Because teaching people is normally pretty easy and straight forward when you are really good at something, and drop-shipping isn't really that hard, it just comes down to experience.

Besides, teaching people can in most cases be more lucrative then doing it yourself, doing both? That's some good income.

Many of the top 'drop-shippers' that sell courses make more money from their courses then they would from drop-shipping, and most of them don't even dropship.

Example: One of the guys I like to watch, gabriel st germain, made close to $500,000 in the first month selling his course, unlike dropshipping which let's be honest, you aren't gonna make $500k in a month dropshipping, has close to 0 expenses and is completely autopilot

Hey man, thanks for your interest in the service. I get this question a lot haha yes I can replicate my process and create multiple stores, which is exactly what I do. Having a dropshipping business can be very hands-off, especially when you have VAs (virtual agents) like myself to automate most of the processes. This leaves me with quite a bit of free time to create other sources of income for myself, such as this mentorship. I enjoy doing it and I only take as many students as I please, that way I can give everyone the proper amount of attention without having to neglect my current businesses at the same time.

In regards to how the mentorship actually works, I teach you everything personally. I don't have premade PDFs or videos or anything like that, I'm walking you through each and every aspect and as you said, essentially "holding your hand." You're gonna get full in-depth answers to make sure you fully understand what is going on, you aren't going to be just repeating a process based off what I tell you without actually understanding. This way, you don't need my help forever and can replicate the process with confidence in the future. For the investment, I recommend having around $800-$1k available. Lots of people are entering this space but most of them don't know what the fuck they're doing, ecommerce still is, and will always be viable and produce fantastic profits. One of my students is doing $10k daily in sales with almost a 35% net profit, which is an incredible margin (especially for dropshipping).

Believe it or not, I actually enjoy teaching people make money and it is 100% worth my time. Otherwise, I would not have ran this service for almost 5 months now. Sorry for the super long answer but I hope that answers everything, feel free to shoot me a PM and we can discuss everything further :)

It would be somewhat difficult considering you need proper english in order to have a quality product page with correct grammar/spelling. If you really wanted, there are people on Fiverr you can hire to proofread everything and make corrections, it doesn't cost much.

As somebody non-us working with mvmt atm the only way you will be limited is timezones which might extend the time it takes for you to get a store running since mvmt obviously can't help you while sleeping.

The only potential limitation we would have is differing timezones, but I have students all across the world and it hasn't really been much of a problem.

mvmt - December 10, 2019, 1:35 pm

Only 2 spots left for the rest of this month

Swinglow - December 12, 2019, 12:14 pm

Extremely interested in purchasing this mentorship. Looks promising.

iMario - December 13, 2019, 1:33 pm

I haven't updated in a while. I'm still making crazy daily profits to this day. I left my 9 to 5 because I had success with this mentorship. Best investment I ever made in my life.

SIM-990284 - December 13, 2019, 3:09 pm

Do you still have a spot looking to purchase!

Bulletbling1 - December 13, 2019, 5:00 pm interested in this, I have money that I could invest into this as well. Looking to get started dropshipping

Manolo - December 16, 2019, 5:32 pm

Update: $50k this month so far, hoping to end the month at six figures, could of been more but had some issues with Shopify payments/Paypal so I paused sales for 3 days, all good now.

Profit margin is 34%

Alec will be starting me with ads very soon, and then hopefully nothing but up (in sales) from there! Look forward to keeping you guys in the loop through the back half of this mentorship. I have great exp with dropshipping! Almost did 50€ a day profit! The reason why I stopped were the refunds.

I ordered sport clothing and almost all purchases were unique so I couldnt use the returning products! The work was too immense im comparison to the profit!

Are u using products you can resell easily after refund? Eg no sizes and stuff? How long is the delivery time? Do you get Samples?

Clothing is by far the most difficult industry to be in, dropshipping makes it 10X worse which is why I never sell clothing. In most cases I will not accept returns for the products and I make this clear on my website (it does not affect sales). The only case I would refund someone is if the product arrived broken or some extreme case like that, but I don't accept returns simply because someone want the product anymore.

I use shipping agents in China so I can get shipping times around 1-2 weeks worldwide, depending on the product I can even get 3-5 day shipping in the United States. And yes I will get samples most of the time.

(Feb 6, 2020 08:05 PM)mvmt Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Looking forward to working with you man :)So long story short I got scammed by some kid on HF for $500 cuz he was holding money for me while my PayPal was limited, and now I'm struggling on money cuz that was the last $500 I had.

Not tryna sound desperate but also $1500 is pretty steep for someone who's on house arrest, and works from home doing stocks..

If we can honestly work something out I'd be grateful, again, not trying to beg or scheme for anything free its just because of this one situation i'm in on top of the fact that HF is full of saturated/BS methods & eBooks.. my trust in people and methods is very low.

Anyways, PM me your discord since I can't PM back if you think we can do something. I see very good potential in this, as Shopify is 100% legal and can be a consistent income for me again after I get it built up.

Thank you so much.

Update on my store that I started in January. I was able to scale it pretty fast, the dip was because of an issue I had with Facebook rejecting one of my ads. Aiming for 175k revenue by the end of Feb. My current profit margin is 25.5%. If you have any questions feel free to shoot me a PM.

Not everyone directly uses AliExpress to fulfill their orders and those dates are not always accurate. Most suppliers are back and are actively shipping - if a particular student's supplier is not currently shipping then I help them find one that is or put them in touch with a shipping agent.

I have relationships with several suppliers and they've all confirmed this, the orders for my store have been shipping for several days now and also my students' stores.

As February is coming to an end, I thought I would give everyone a one month update of my store. To clarify, this is my third profitable store. I was able to scale this store quickly throughout February and hopefully continue. As stated before, the dip in the sales was due to an ad rejection. Very happy I could surpass $200,000 in revenue.

Launched my store on the 25th feb ran with the same ad budget the first 3 days and have since scaled it slightly but due to paypal being its usual self I haven't scaled much since then
I don't keep a close track on profit calculations but a rough estimate is $9*92 (828) on product cost and $1062 on adspend leaving me about $800 profit so far

Didn't include today since the day isn't over.

The covid situation did cause a lot of problems in late Feb / early March but everything in China is pretty much back to normal, myself and other students have been running ads and shipping product just fine, I actually had a student that did over $500k in sales in just March.

For the budget, I recommend having at least $600 for investment. If anyone else has questions, feel free to contact me for more information :)

iMario - April 6, 2020, 5:08 pm

I have now 2 stores running with about 10k in daily sales, both around 20%-30% daily profits. So I'm making between 4k to 6k in profits daily. Same strategy for my new store learned with this mentorship.

For product research, I'll be showing you the criteria that I look for on products as well as my strategies for doing the research itself. You'll be sending me the products you find and I will give feedback on them, we'll keep doing this until you find a product that fits my criteria and I verify is worth moving forward with.

You can't start with that low of a budget, it's very inefficient. I recommend to have around $600-$1k available for adspend in total, your daily budget will be changing frequently so it's not something to worry about.

I'm Stanley HF's helper bot. This OP (original poster) of this thread wants everyone to see this page and has elected to bump it to the top of the showthread listing. Since HF doesn't want a ton of LQP (Low Quality Posts) this is the best method of bumping your content. There is a small ?yte fee for each bump. Any OP can bump any of their threads on HF from the linked icon on the top of their first post.

If you haven't already read the first post of this thread we encourage you to do so.

Is everything still operating or are you able to help with identifying products and all that will still convert even now?

Also happen to have any DFY offer tied to it to help with shortcutting store creation, product research and/or ad setups?

If so, I'd be in - definitely interested in jumping in and scaling fast.

Also any way I can sneak in for this month? :)

Last Q - what payment methods can I use?

Let me know and I'll get a contract in.

What sets you aside from the free YouTube tutorials? I've watched countless hours of dropshipping YouTube channels such as BiaHeza and I'm pretty sure I have a winning product. What makes you worth the $1500 and sets you aside from other stuff? Asking for investment purposes not to be aggressive

All the free YouTube videos and paid courses will still not give you someone that will personally walk you through each and every step of this business, ensuring you are doing things properly along the way. I taught myself everything from paid courses and YouTube videos and it still took me several months and thousands of dollars lost through trial and error.

Working with me ensures that you will not be making costly mistakes and not wasting your time on strategies/products that are not going to work. A lot of online content also teaches outdated information. Ecommerce is constantly changing and I keep my students in the loop on what is currently working and what isn't.

Huge vouch for MVMT.

This is probably the only service on this website that you should even think about buying.

I launched my store halfway through April and did around $34,000 in sales in around 3 weeks. So far in May I've done close to $5,000 each day so far, that's on track to make over $100k in revenue this month.

I've seen a lot of people ask what the difference between this mentorship and buying a course is, and the honest answer is, you can be successful using a course but the success rate will be so much lower, you don't have someone to go to and ask the small questions, that make the big differences, following a course step by step won't give you success, like all businesses you have to adapt (COVID-19 is a great example of that), and the thing that kept me successful during this time was having experienced mentors to walk me through how to adapt to this situation.

Yes of course, but that's not what makes my mentorship so valuable. Even with all the best courses, you still aren't going to have someone guide you 1-on-1 to ensure you are doing everything correctly, prevent costly mistakes, help you with product research, etc. My mentorship will increase your chances of success much more than any paid course will.

Hey. Dropshipping is something I've been looking into.

-Will your mentorship explain how to avoid being silenced using Facebook ads? As Facebook had been aggressively banning dropshipping stores.

- When purchasing, customers look for three things: cheap price, fast shipping, and large selection. Obviously dropshipping doesn't satisfy these main customers demand. What will stop the customers from looking at the product on Amazon and buying from there. Will the products you help us find be rare in the meaning it is not easily found on e-commerce giants?

Thanks for addressing my concerns!

1. Are u relying on Aliexpress suppliers only?
2. Is it one store product, and if so, is it branded?
3. What is your current profit margin?
4. For finding products, are you spying on ads or competitors?
5. For finding products methods, is it possible to use the same method for other stores?
6. Is your methods for findings products applicable for long terms? Like if I start-up a new store Can I use the same previous methods
7. Are using trail and error for testing products?

Ecom sales are booming right now due to everyone shopping online instead of in-stores. This caused longer shipping times a few months ago but everything is generally back to normal now.

Had to stop the store due to shipping times.

Relaunched about a week ago and i'm already back to $1,000/day, expect to be back into the big numbers very shortly with MVMT's guidance.

There are so many different things you need to do, and whilst i can run the store on my own for the day to day stuff, helping me grow and learn other aspects (maybe a few lines here of advice every few days) is incredibly helpful.

I need his help atm due to just starting ads again and wanting to go about it right.

I'm definitely becoming more confident on my own, but i'm not going to turn down the help and experience from him?

Edit: However I do think, I've learnt enough to go out on my own and start a new store and have success with it

So first day had around $350 in sales with a really good profit, second day was a lot worse with only $80 sales and no profit, and today is the third day I will keep this updated.

atari2001 - August 3, 2020, 10:46 pm

I started this too and my first store was very good, I made within 2 weeks around $1600 profit without any big scaling. I took the ads down after 2 weeks because a lot problems with Facebook policies.

Now I'm near to finish my 2nd store.

I can vouch for mvmt, his knowledge is big and he help you with everything.

Just keep one thing in mind: creating a store can be done pretty easy from every person but creating the ads, is a complete different story and that's what he is very good with. If you have no experience with it, you can burn a lot money.

This isn't a short term earning method!

The only thing what I can confirm is that the respond time is sometimes slow, but keep in mind that he has some other students too, and he has a real life!

My contract is marked as incomplete, but here is it:

If you fail, its because you gave up too soon.

I didnt make any money yet, only cause i still didnt start with his mentorship. (Struggling with bigger personal issues to focus enough time on this. Its not autopilot, you HAVE to dedicate time if want to make bank, as most everything in life).

I can assure anyone that Alec, mods and even customers are always sharing ideas, giving support and recommendations from their experience. Its a really safe place to learn more than you paid for it.

You don't need to handle the inventory. Everything is shipped from AliExpress directly to your customers. If you're from Canada that's even better because you won't have any issues with being accepted by Shopify Payments/Stripe or PayPal.

Presumably all the people that fail, never come back to update any posts and say why they failed. It's likely -- in this instance -- because they gave up (due to failing, spending too much money, etc.). There's no reason to update you and tell you why they failed lol. Seems MVMT's recipes work for (some) students, so it's not like 1 student saying "I failed," discredits that. It was probably a them problem, why would they post they failed because they lost motivation or whatever?

ONLY 5 students per month - $1,500 per person

This may seem like a "high" price, but I'm telling you now that you will not find an offer like this anywhere else. Most Shopify gurus on YouTube/social media charges upwards of $1,000 for their courses and 99% of these people don't even actually sell on Shopify. I'm completely transparent on how much I'm currently earning and have no problem with proving it to you. If you're serious about e-commerce and entrepreneurship, get in contact with me and I promise it will be worth your time. The price I am charging is nothing compared to the potential upside.

Just a late update from my last post but I decided to move on from the product I was testing as it just wasn't profitable and I didnt want to continue blowing money on Ads. Currently searching for another winning product to test. Mvmt gave me great advice on how to make a store look legit so it can convert well. Will use the info for the future when I create another store.

It's to protect them from unexpected increase in workload. If you just disappear for a month or two and suddenly want to get back into it, it's just not right. Communication is the key and ofcourse if you have personal issues or something you can talk about taking a break with mvmt. But just disappearing usually means that you have gave up. I'm in the group myself and haven't been able to do shit for months because of my situation rn but hopefully I can get back to work soon. We'll see. ?

Yeah, I totally understand the reasoning, and it's my fault for not reading all of the Terms and Conditions. I just wish I knew about it before going silent for a month and losing out on 1.5k ... They do provide great resources though, and they are very knowledgeable!

Even I was on the membership and lost $1.5k due to Inactivity for some time. But I have a question for OP

When we try to join the membership, you guys are really active in following up, can't you do the same for inactivity as well??

I mean a small notification from your side would have been better, we're paying $1500 for the course and not $15, even a simple service would send expiry notifications but you guys did not do that. Any reason for this?? Just because you got your mentorship fees, you don't really bother about the students?

I will parrot this. When I was inactive for a month, I was told to look at the inactive membership policy in the announcements section (it was posted months ago, and difficult to find, even when prompted.)

If I was told "hey you're about to lose your 1.5k membership", of course I would have responded. Kind of felt like a "gotcha", to be honest. Which, I might add, is totally within their right to do. I'm just posting this because I do not want anyone else to lose 1.5 grand.

Yeah, that is what even I'm telling. When they are seriously following up with people before joining, why can't they just send a simple message that our membership is going to expire????? This is the main question here, where is the follow up after joining this mentorship

In their defense, they aren't only here to make money. They have helped a lot of people.

I only take umbrage with their shady disqualification practice. But as I said, it's within their right, they did nothing wrong.

I should not have to remind to you that you shouldn't disappear for more than 30 days when signing up for a service like this. Hey Guys this is my update after my last post. I've been working hard at this for 2 months now. This is not a make money on autopilot kind of thing. They NEVER EXIST. You put in the work, you get the results. In this type of business it is very similar to a roller coaster. You have ups, and you have downs. Personally my downs have been quite extreme. My whole Facebook got banned after a month of me starting dropshipping. All my data, everything was finished. But I didn't give up. I've had $50 adspend limits for over a month. However through all these downs CCS and MVMT supported me. They actually believed in me. I'm starting to get back on my feet now. I just want to say if you are buying this membership please put in the work. So I launched my store on the 1st of August but on the 1st of september my facebook got banned. Here are some results.

Due to me not currently having 50 posts I can't post images or links so here is an imgur album showing some daily sales and my total sales since august 1st. Just change the DOT to . in your url and remove the square brackets

[imgur\[DOT\]com/a/Og66XS0](#)

Profit Margin is about 20% currently due to me experimenting with alot of campaigns and creatives.

This mentor-ship is worth the $1.5k and I've made that money back already :) Thanks CCS AND MVMT 10/10 Recommend if you are willing to put the work in Dropshipping is a very common business practice, it allows you to sell products in a capital-efficient way because you don't have to worry about purchasing, storing, and shipping inventory. Profit margins vary based on the product but on average, anywhere from 20-40% at scale. How long it takes to make a profit just depends on your work ethic and your product, however I've seen students start generating a profit within their first month of starting.

Hey!

I have few questions:

Do you need a company to do this?

If not, how you declare your taxes?

Which payment processors will be using?

As Stripe is not available in my country and paypal is a biatch, closing accounts.

* Products will come from China or US market?

Because if they come from China, it takes 30-45 days to reach the costumer and you get bunch of canceled orders(from my past experience when I attempted to do dropshipping)

Thanks in advance!

Browsing through the thread I've read concerns of members who have had slow responses / members effectively being kicked off if they haven't responded in a month (even though they paid a $1500 sum and given you notice befor hand) - is this issue still persisting?

Seems like a good mentorship but those are the only two grouches I've got with it. I'd be interested in this myself if you could address those problems, thank you.

The only members that have been "kicked out" are those that go inactive for longer than 30 days. I've had this rule for quite some time and I feel that it is more than fair. It's not fair to other students and me that people are disappearing for sometimes several months and then coming back like nothing happened.

All that I ask is that if you need to be inactive for an extended period of time, simply shoot me a message to let me know.

Uberl33thax - December 23, 2020, 8:45 am

This mentorship is the best thing I've found not only on HF, but anywhere else. It's been a great learning experience.

Mvmt and CCS teach you every step of the way to launching and running a successful store. They teach you how to find winning products, create a brand name, a logo, how to create ads and set up your store for conversions. Most importantly, they support you all the way through the process and help with running and scaling FB ads, which is arguably one of the most complicated aspects of dropshipping.

I must say you will have to invest time and effort in order to get decent results, but it's true for everything in life. Personally, I'm so glad I found this mentorship and jumped on board, it's been so worth it.

Here are the stats for my current store I launched in the middle of November:

I've not purchased or affiliated with OP or OP's method whatsoever but I can almost guarantee that the 170k is not net profit, and even if it was Shopify drop shipping from the little I know about it requires work but not a whole lot of work so why would he not spend his time teaching others a topic he loves and gaining extra income from it?

It won't affect his business, it's a definite income source, it's enjoyable and satisfactory and it's all profit.

Maybe this is a scam (by the vouches I don't think so) but even if this was a scam that logic isn't exactly smart brother, people earn millions and still teach others for a fraction of the price..

Spoiler \(Click to View\)

Some of you may remember me from my previous Amazon FBA mentorship program, however I've recently ventured into Shopify Dropshipping and found a great amount of success with it so far. I've always had a passion for teaching and helping others make money which is why I've decided to offer my knowledge to only a few select people each month. I will literally be teaching you everything from start to finish, sharing with you all my strategies and exactly how I run my own stores. Due to my poor previous experiences on this forum, I ask that you only contact me if you are serious about making money online - I don't have time for lazy people.

Most updated results, $170,000 revenue in July:

What you will be learning through the course of this mentorship:How to easily find winning products

Properly setting up your website

Creating effective advertisements for Facebook

My exact Facebook ad strategy

Optimizing your website/advertising to increase conversions

How to completely automate your store

Various tips and "hacks" such as utilizing your store to travel around the world for free

The greatest part about my strategy is that it is easily replicable, meaning you can use this strategy on future products/stores that you will create and it doesn't require dozens of hours just to create your website. As shown by my results, this business can take off very fast once you have found a winner. This brand new store was doing $1,000+ daily sales after only 5 days. Shopify stores are also incredibly easy to scale because Facebook's algorithm is doing most of the work for you, the main reason so many people end up failing is because they have no idea what they are doing and don't have proper guidance to help them succeed.

Pricing Information:

ONLY 5 students per month - $1,500 per person

This may seem like a "high" price, but I'm telling you now that you will not find an offer like this anywhere else. Most Shopify gurus on YouTube/social media charges upwards of $1,000 for their courses and 99% of these people don't even actually sell on Shopify. I'm completely transparent on how much I'm currently earning and have no problem with proving it to you. If you're serious about e-commerce and entrepreneurship, get in contact with me and I promise it will be worth your time. The price I am charging is nothing compared to the potential upside.

Once the spots are full, you will have to wait until I have more positions open or you can go ahead and reserve your spot for the next batch of 5 people.

Feel free to PM me or post here if you have any questions or would like more information.

FAQ:

Spoiler (Click to View)

How much money do I need to invest?

I recommend starting with around $500, the only thing you will actually be spending money on is Facebook ads. Everything else can be done on your own for free.

How long will it take to start making a profit?

My most recent store started making profit after only 3 days. As stated previously, this business can move very fast and can be scaled very fast.

How much work will this require from me?

The setup of the store itself is all done on your own time. Once your store is up and running, you will only need to spend a few hours a week for optimization and various management.
