Thread: Whats Your Biggest Pet Peeve?

mrnelly - May 19, 2019, 5:26 am

Something that bothers me so much that it makes me want to curl up and die is the feeling and thought of tearing cotton. Something about it makes my skin crawl like crazy.

Even the sound sets me off. I can't deal with it.

Never heard about that pet peeve. Personally I hate getting my pants wet under the rain

That's the reason (unless I have somewhere to be) when I'm out casually walking the dog or going to shop, I always wear gym shorts in the rain as they don't get all horrible to wear and I have quite muscular, hairy legs so they don't really get cold

When people post pet pictures in pet peeves section of this forum.....it really triggers me.....Do people not know the definition of pet peeve, and because some spastic back then didn't, this community has adopted it's new meaning of lets post pet pictures instead of what actually annoys us.....

Fun fact I bought gym pants the other day with some other stuff and after I got home I found out they were like $220 lmao
Can't get money back so I went back and exchanged them for protein

How on earth did you manage to buy $220 gym shorts? Are they hella expensive where you're from?

Makes sense. I've always been a little bit annoyed by that with things like paper bags for shopping with paper handles instead of plastic ones. Better for the environment though so I suck it up!
Besides, morrisons has some really good paper bags now
