Thread: Album Artwork I did for a friend

NotLunchcube - May 21, 2019, 3:59 pm

Yeah. I do artwork as a hobby and I did this for a friend. I love constructive criticism.

pretty coolio graphic i like the colour and displacement

But it's hard to give any criticism when we're talking about a cover for a song or artist because the cover should reflect the song/artist at hand so it's hard to give feedback on that particular topic without prior background knowledge ya know? Though from a purely mechanical skill viewpoint it's cool

Thank you for your thoughts! I would be more than happy to release the song if people would like to see where the idea came from. I also am unaware of the rules of posting links to places like soundcloud.

I really like how this piece came out. I think it's great to be used for album artwork. Green-ish color is great and the texting also matches with the theme! Nice job. It's your first artwork or have you done more??

yeah, idk what the rules are on posting on outside websites but i'm sure they would allow a streaming music website right?

Alright this is really cool, can be used & wanted most likely as said above for a album cover or some kind of advertising campaign?

Regardless, looks great

Thank you! I have done a ton of work, I just recently started getting back into HF after a 4-5 year hiatus, and found out my account was deleted or expired. Something like that. This is just one of my most recent pieces. I'm doing a giveaway right now if you'd like a signature done for free by me. Check out my other thread in the free GFX services.

On the other hand, my friend wouldn't mind getting some streams. LOL.

It is already being used! I love this style of grainy/noisy images and psychedelic ASAP Rocky and Yung Lean type vibes.
