if you need se you could just use whatsapp web and when he is not looking just scan the code on you phone and have full whatsapp access

What if you don't have physical access?

(Jun 11, 2019 01:29 AM)Lynx Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) What if you don't have physical access?well than using a rat or similar might work just as good as a tool from someone. I know that pupy (rat) can be used on android phones.

But that is somewhat overkill since you just wand to get access to whatsapp.
you could how ever use pupy to make a screen shot of the whatsapp web qr code.

but you always need physical access or you need to use social engineering on the user of the phone to get what you want you cant just target a machine and get access to it.

If you know the person's email/phone number search for it in a leaked database compilation like weleakinfo.com. They might have the password.

hello I'm interested in the tool , would love to have it thank you ^^

ThisBearScat - August 16, 2019, 5:06 am im always wary of PM me, most either ask for money once you PM them or just try and send you a backdoor to your system and they do it through PM as they are not allowed to post malicious software to target other users and its a discreet way of infecting members.

plus for a hacking forum im quite shocked with how many people are posting email addresses for all to see lol, either 10 years olds or people that really dont know about online security. i do rate the one that uses protonmail tho at least they posted an anonymous encrypted email address.

come on ppl you can do better than this, you want to be hackers but dont seem to be concerned about your own online security. please think before posting and hold your desperation in.
