

Forum:Hack Forums

Thread: is it acceptable to have a personality on the forums

shelled - June 1, 2019, 3:32 pm

or is it considered low quality and we should just act our robots and our experiences should be condensed to only what's necessary without a sense of humanity in them to be considered quality?

just curious or am I just missing a VIP membership that would otherwise command the ultimate perception of arbitrary internet respect?

ShinyThings - June 1, 2019, 3:35 pm

Um everyone here has their own personality

shelled - June 1, 2019, 3:36 pm

(Jun 1, 2019 03:35 PM)ShinyThings Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Um everyone here has their own personality perhaps you misunderstood the context in my posts which would be reference certain nuances and posting styles, although i would contend against what you posted

Ravioli - June 1, 2019, 3:43 pm

here's some personality for you

inhale my ass

ShinyThings - June 1, 2019, 3:44 pm

(Jun 1, 2019 03:36 PM)shelled Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) perhaps you misunderstood the context in my posts which would be reference certain nuances and posting styles, although i would contend against what you postedEnglish pls

(Jun 1, 2019 03:43 PM)Ravioli Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) here's some personality for you

inhale my ass

What this user says x2

Mr. Robot - June 1, 2019, 4:45 pm

You'll be considered low quality by some - while others will listen to what you have to say accordingly at a ratio of something like this:

Non upgraded - 60% of users will shit on you for whatever you post if you aren't upgraded. 40% will be fine.

Upgraded - 40% of users will shit on you for whatever you post if you are upgraded. 60% will be fine.

The margins are slim. Then there specific join dates that dictate more towards that - such as 2011 and before gains more respect than 2012 but 2013 also gains more respect than 2012. I always see 2012 members being shat on around the forum. 2014 members are usually anime and cod players so they are the ones shitting on others mostly.

Then popularity, group, bytes and game xp all play a part as well as threads and posts (not on that order) - the more full your profile is the better. But keep in mind if you have one stat such as posts that is quite high but have low threads or popularity, that can have the opposite effect and make your profile look fucked up.

Omniscient - June 1, 2019, 4:56 pm

You sound like you have no personality and even worse if you can't recognize that so many different personalities already exist on the site.

Deany - June 1, 2019, 5:48 pm

i'm the guy that faps to a lot of hentai so yeah probably

Spaark - June 2, 2019, 11:06 pm

(Jun 1, 2019 05:48 PM)Deany Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) i'm the guy that faps to a lot of hentai so yeah probably I'm the guy that doesn't so yeah probably.

For real though, I've met people from all over the place with very different views to me on this site. As far as I know, Wolfpack has a person from each continent of the world, even Africa. There's all sorts here, which is very cool. If you can't tell the difference in users, you're not having controversial enough conversations. Head to the SRPP section and you'll see what I mean.

Dope - June 3, 2019, 12:02 am

Why would u even care about the other members opinions. You do you. It's not like the online personality reflects your actual personality irl. I personally don't give a shit.

bevc - June 3, 2019, 12:04 am

I assume it's acceptable. This isn't StackOverflow.