Thread: 85% Finished setting up RAT, need portforwarding/vpn help!

zexman07 - June 2, 2019, 3:46 am

Hey there HF friends. So I took a few years off from RATs and decided to start dabbling again. I need help with testing my RAT file and possibly port forwarding. I have a VPN that auto port forwards port 443 which I'm running the RAT on + noip. I can't seem to get it to connect even when testing on a diff PC with different internet/ip. Could anyone help a brother out; I'll for sure throw you a few bucks via paypal.

Thanks in advance!

Don't use Skype for talking about illegal cyber crimes. Why do people do that?
you in court

You: I plead NOT guilty, you have no evidence!

Judge: Yeah, Microsoft gave up your logs and we have you confessing. Sorry, but you're going to jail for 25 years.

Also no-ip was subpoenaed a while ago regarding rat usage on its services and was forced to reveal people's details.

What "cyber crime" do you suspect me of committing robo cop? I didn't even insinuate I was doing anything illegal. I have two ISP's in one house & multiple computers in one house. I asked for help not banter

Why are you using a ddns service and a VPN if it is within your home? You wouldn't even need to port forward if it was LAN.

i highly recomment to dont use no-ip. Use -- h <https://freedns.afraid.org/> -- instead

If u got problems with your port forwarding while using a vpn mabye ur vpn is blocking all ports. Try another VPN, for example -- h <https://nvpn.net/> --- is working great and allow to set up port forwading.

After u both set up (download the listener prog from nvpn) check ur open port if its REALLY open

He did mention it was on another connection.

But regardless, log into your router and port forward from there.

If you're going to use the RAT maliciously, don't port forward from your router. And use another connection that doesn't belong to you ;)

But also don't get caught doing that too.

so don't use the internet at all.

But if your confident you wont get caught, do it :)

I don't know, the best approach would be too use a network that isn't your own. Still use a VPN; Public WiFi not near you.

whoever is the victim, i suggest putting it on a flashdrive or something or being able to get access to their computer. Something like that.

Why don't you use Ngrok? No-IP for malicious software isn't the best...

Well now this is an interesting service
ngrok.com

I will be looking in to this more so, I strongly suggest others do as well.

Thanks. Id shoot you a +rep, but alas I cant afford an upgrade as of yet.
