

Forum:Hack Forums

Thread: Something sketchy going on here....

Fugg - June 12, 2019, 6:20 pm

posts are randomly dissapearing from the metaverse

Lokerox - June 12, 2019, 6:29 pm

I'm Lokerox, I desperately need help with this situation as I think I may be infected, and have some sensitive information on my computer.

I haven't download anything from HF that I can remember, and never talk with the other so I can't understand how he infected me but still it's weird, how he know about the textbooks?

I don't think he can be able to SE venmo, and how he know we did a exchange with venmo, when the exchange it's private?

Yesterday exactly I was having problem with my mouse, stop working and didn't work again until I unplug and plug it again, I literally did it like 5 times. After didn't stop again.

This don't make sense at all, so I really appreciate if someone can help us with this!

Yac1ne - June 13, 2019, 1:11 am

We're talking about a computer here guys , a MACHINE , if someone was able to get some of your info , and since that someone isn't a friend of yours , then there's no other explanation other than a RAT inside your system , just do a full virus scan , i highly recommend using Bitdefender , ESET or Malwarebytes

Crypticus - June 14, 2019, 6:07 am

I mean sounds like a RAT to me, Lokerox I'd recommend you do a virus scan and if you want to do a full windows reinstall that'd be the safest option as some RATs can be crypted which means anti virus doesn't pick it up. If you 100% claim you HAVEN'T downloaded anything then I have no clue how someone could access something on your PC which drops us down to the conclusion that one of you are lying to eachother. ?

Anomaly - June 17, 2019, 4:18 pm

Reformat your computers and start using virtual box for all of your future dealings in the underground world. Just my 2 cents.

HLAB - June 27, 2019, 5:39 pm

(Jun 14, 2019 06:07 AM)F A D E Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) I mean sounds like a RAT to me, Lokerox I'd recommend you do a virus scan and if you want to do a full windows reinstall that'd be the safest option as some RATs can be crypted which means anti virus doesn't pick it up. If you 100% claim you HAVEN'T downloaded anything then I have no clue how someone could access something on your PC which drops us down to the conclusion that one of you are lying to eachother. ?

Good explanation .

A Few Problems - August 4, 2019, 10:02 pm

(Jun 12, 2019 06:20 PM)Kapuas Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) This is related to my recent community alert: Hack Forums

Please read the above for some background on the situation.

The other user involved in this situation is "Lokerox", who will be posting after I post this.

Anyways, some quick background: Me and Lokerox are friends. I trust him very much and have exchanged upwards of thousands with him I am sure. We are trying to figure out how the user in my previously linked thread was able to know anything about textbooks.

Me and Lokerox have both scoured our Skype messages, contracts, and PMs. We are 1000% positive that neither of us mentioned anything about textbooks to the user mentioned in the community alert. Or, to anyone for that matter. We have also come to the conclusion that there would really be no way to SE Venmo into giving us information about transaction history on another users account.

Therefore, we have come to the conclusion that one of us is infected. I am thinking it is probably Lokerox, as he claims his mouse was acting funny the other day. However, neither of us download or open any programs off HF (Or at least, I can most definitely confirm I do NOT). But, I still know it is a possibility that we could be infected in various other ways such as ebooks etc etc.

Could someone please help settle our minds so we can continue exchanging / dealing? What sort of steps should we take? Probs a RAT run malware bytes try reinstalling your os if you wanna be extra sure use sandboxie on a vm in the future