Thread: What are some benefits of being in the Air Force?

Sunniebeta - June 15, 2019, 10:16 pm

I've just been looking into it lately. Anyone here in the military or in the navy?

you get treated much better than marines and army thats for sure. but typically navy and airforce jobs are usually better transitions in the civilian world.

usually if you go on mission to another state or country you get hotels paid for. army/marines usually are put in barracks with loads of other dudes.

I'm not sure, you can ask USAF. I saw a documentary about this years ago. They did a series of testing on the base about flying and those control buttons on the plane, etc.
