Thread: #Skyline, Raided by police.

Pronouncer - June 20, 2019, 8:40 am

Just be advised if you try and contact skyline, or message any of his profiles. #Skyline has recently been raided by the police, hence his inactivity. So far all we know is that they raided him, took access to his accounts.

So be careful lads.

He is not currently in a cell so take it as you please.

Dotexe - June 20, 2019, 8:43 am

Thank you for the warn bro.

I lowkey was hoping i wasn't right, but oh well :/ Thanks for posting this warning to people tho.

How do you guys know about this, was it on the news? I never interacted with him but I sure have seen his posts here and there.

Almonds - June 20, 2019, 9:03 am

That is really unfortunate. Hope we get an update soon, thanks for the putting word out. ?

Maybe he helped / taught the wrong person and was viewed as an accomplice, or perhaps it was something he did when he used to do more blackhat stuff and it came to bite him in the ass later

SUI-3183372 - June 20, 2019, 9:52 am

A long history of ratting on an alias that's been [allegedly] tied to a real identity will do that to you. :|

I doubt he got "raided" like SWAT team breaking down his door how you're thinking.

Most likely had a search/seizure warrant from the FBI.

Happened to me thanks to literally just knowing Vinnie and Cyph Jr, dumbass kids actually didn't hide themselves at all.

I looked at whoami earlier and it seemed legit.

Pronouncer idk what you think, but I believe that it was because of his spreading guides which he sold. As for the ratting, it probably wasnt too much of a priority for the feds unless he was committing fraud on a large scale. The spreading guides are probably what got him. Showing others how to spread malware certainly would raise some flags. Hopefully he can handle this and has a good lawyer.

tldr; dont sell spreading guides

At the end of the day it's irrelevant, he has been offline for 2weeks+ on HF that is weird for him to do that.

They probably used the spreading guide as conspiracy, then to get the PC and find rat logs.

You can get charged with conspiracy for just about anything, it's used to gain probable cause for a warrant. Just one post on hf about ratting was probably enough to get him screwed, since it provided the need for a warrant.

I'm laughing because that is so unlikely.

I have been unfortunately raided 3 times but I knew exactly why they were there and it was never for anything petty like RATs, piracy, or botnets.

I'm not saying it doesn't happen from time to time, I'm just saying that that is unlikely.

Because it is so miniscale compared to other BH activities.

If they are all involved in a "ring" then perhaps it is more likely but I am still skeptical that there is not more going on based on my own personal experiences with raids.

RATs alone is definitely still on the table of possibilities (though I completely and HIGHLY doubt that's their only reason) but if any amount of carding was involved then I wouldn't question it at all though those things are unlikely to be associated with each other.

debian - June 20, 2019, 8:13 pm

Before crypto, ratting wasn't that big of a deal legally, but now that you can easily steal lots of money through ratting, the feds are on it.

#Skyline told me to create an account and post on his behalf.

(Jun 20, 2019 09:20 AM)Pronouncer Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Skyline never did anything illegal per say well not recently. Used to rat, now just sold ebooks.

That is what he believes.

(Jun 20, 2019 09:35 AM)Winds Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) So how did he manage to get raided by the police?

Police don't raid people for no reason. ?
Supplying data with the intent of cyber crime.

(Jun 20, 2019 09:48 AM)Pronouncer Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) We aren't aware of the details yet. When I know more I'll tell you. But from experience shit you do years ago catches up
He said, yes it does.

(Jun 20, 2019 09:59 AM)Swip3r Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) I doubt he got "raided" like SWAT team breaking down his door how you're thinking.

Most likely had a search/seizure warrant from the FBI.
Happened to me thanks to literally just knowing Vinnie and Cyph Jr, dumbass kids actually didn't hide themselves at all.
He said they were sitting in a carpark waiting for him to finish work (Jun 20, 2019 10:02 AM)Psychedelic. Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) What sort of activities was he involved in?

Edit: I see. Either his involvement in RATs or whoami vpn.
Not related to Whoami VPN.

(Jun 20, 2019 12:18 PM)Psychedelic. Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) I looked at whoami earlier and it seemed legit.

Pronouncer idk what you think, but I believe that it was because of his spreading guides which he sold. As for the ratting, it probably wasn't too much of a priority for the feds unless he was committing fraud on a large scale. The spreading guides are probably what got him. Showing others how to spread malware certainly would raise some flags. Hopefully he can handle this and has a good lawyer.

tldr; dont sell spreading guides
This is true.

(Jun 20, 2019 12:27 PM)Zeus Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) At the end of the day it's irrelevant, he has been offline for 2weeks+ on HF that is weird for him to do that.
Sketchy shit is happening to him atm and i wouldn't trust him.
Doesn't matter what he got arrested for bla bla bla he's finished now.
He said this is just the start.

(Jun 20, 2019 12:42 PM)Pronouncer Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) They probably used the spreading guide as conspiracy, then to get the PC and find rat logs.
Correct. He said they tried finding more data on him.

(Jun 20, 2019 04:04 PM)DNA Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) I don't think he was raided for being involved with malware, if he did he probably had some sort of botnet up and running for years

I think something else hides behind the apparent legit activities
Incorrect. #Skyline doesn't use malware or even spread it for that matter.

(Jun 20, 2019 05:17 PM)MaximumPain Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Getting raided for ratting LMFAO what a skid hahaha
He was supplying data.

(Jun 21, 2019 10:22 AM)EK9# Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) They Probably want the logs from his vpn if he has any, someone must of done some bh shit that they are not happy about nosy cunts want to look through the logs and find out who it is.

#Skyline said the VPN is safe. And the project will be returning with more services.

Again because it wasn't in the original post, I don't understand why you need to get involved in a conversation you were included in just to cause shit same as the other guy. Oh right because people can't reply to a thread and not read every single reply to OP's post. I don't waste my time. Keep it to yourself or stay on topic like everyone should of done in the first place.

Yeah you did.

I guess people are just confused on why you entered a discussion on a forum and chose not to read the "crappy replies", then go on to complain the information wasn't all in the OP.
