Thread: Favorite sad movie/show?

For shows, I'd say Plastic Memories and Angel Beats were very sad.

For movies, Your Name and A Silent Voice both hit in the feels.

Opinion and thoughts?

Weebex - June 24, 2019, 10:08 pm

ShowsClannad

Angel beats

Penguindrum

Nagi no Asukara

Might be more, but some on the top of my head.

Those are indeed some very high quality shows. Thank you for opinion.

no game no life is sad, but not the show itself, just the fact that it won't be continued :clown:

Imma have to check that out.

Have you seen Plastic memories? Does it end in that fashion?

akame ja kill i think so little bit sad

rayden707 - June 26, 2019, 7:01 pm

Probably your lie in April. I cry every time i hear the ending named Orange ?

Clannad had me pretty emotional as well. I also recommend Plastic memories if you're looking for something sad.

I've seen both and I would have to agree with you. Both are very sad and have amazing plots, characters, and character developments.

Trust me, Code Geass made me tear more than Clannad/Angel Beats or any of those nakige ever did.

Cylow - June 28, 2019, 6:59 am

Angel beats first anime that ever made me cry.

Lmaooo I was gonna watch this here soon. I heard it was really sad haha

3xploit - June 30, 2019, 6:29 am

Mirai Nikki had a very sad ending I think. Also, Violet Evergarden and AnoHana were very sad, although I didn't like AnoHana that much because the plot is pretty dumb at some points.

Dr.BrokenGod - June 30, 2019, 11:04 am

Myself;yourself was quite emotional. I really enjoyed it. It was one of my first non action/adventure animes to watch.

5 Centimeters Per Second was pretty amazing. Definitely a tearjerker.. Worth the watch. If you're looking for a show Boku dake ga Inai Machi (Erased) has a beautiful but sad story.

Heard that one was pretty good

FrozenEXP - September 21, 2019, 10:44 am

Into the Forest of Fireflies' Light
Wolf Children
Air

Professor Pantsu - October 30, 2019, 7:51 am

Girls Last Tour, its not sad in the booo hoooo my gf died but more of just straight up steeped in depression from top to bottom in a more subtle way.

lelouch 309 - October 30, 2019, 10:50 pm
zankyouno terror its sad anime

3xploit - October 31, 2019, 12:22 pm
Plastic memories

void850 - November 7, 2019, 3:59 pm
im pretty straight forward

Angel Beats
Clannad
Tsukihime (It was that shitty I cried)

My top sad anime are

1. Clannad
2. Your Lie in April
3. Anohana

Movie wise: Kimi no Nawa of course and maybe 5 inches from heaven or whatever it's called.

Psilocybe - November 9, 2019, 3:05 pm
I haven't watched anime extensively so I can't contribute much here, but the saddest show I've watched is samurai champloo. Not even just the storyline, but the entire vibe the show gives off is so mellow & downbeat

if u want a cool anime, animation jap based, look @ Chihiro

Ki mi no na wa
i love this movie.

taran - February 20, 2020, 11:17 pm
May of already been said, but

1. Koe no Katachi - Now, I don't normally show emotion, and to be frank, I never do, it's something my dad told us men don't do when I was growing up. However, when I was watching this movie for the first time, I balled my eyes out and had to pause the show because it wouldn't give me a break lmao. Honestly just thinking about it makes me feel sad, it's just such a powerful movie, especially for an anime, it's intense.

2. Kimi no na Wa - Another romance, another great movie, didn't cry, but first time watching it I was a little lost.

Parks - July 23, 2023, 9:01 pm

Howls moving castle was kinda sad.

HiddenMyth - July 25, 2023, 11:11 am

guilty crow was sad and upsetting
