f your wodering if this is fake, It isn't... You get bets every 3-4 Hours by the looks of things with advised amounts for begginers and who to bet on.

Im looking forward to todays bets already won 1 and have another 3 waiting to start later today.

DegenerateJ Wrote:I signed up yesterday and already in the profit. From the bets posting from the service, I can say it is a high odds of winning bets, I think around 70-80%, which is enough to profit. I started with a smaller bankroll, so it will take me a few days or maybe 2 weeks to get up to making bigger bets and higher profits, but I will vouch for this service.

Payment sent through the autobuy link he has worked very well and I was up and running in a matter of minutes.

Thanks.

I'm really happy with this service.

I was using it and it was like 85 - 90% accurate when I joined easy and huge profit also he tells you how much to bet and if you just follow his steps no way you shouldn't be making $300+ or more a month. Better then ebooks which you don't know you will profit from. He has all his profit info public etc. Nice dude as well and easy to talk to would highly recommend

So far this month in Feburary I am up almost $1k on my initial $1k deposit. Clearing upwards of $160 a day lots of calls for tomorrow so looking forward to doing a slight yolo before my guy pays me out monday.

Would recommend this service.
Could not be happier. (Right now)

(Feb 25, 2021 02:33 PM)Wheezy Gang Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) I joined this group at the start of February and I want to just say, wow, been making good profits. The bets are posted in a nicely organized thread on a private forum, very simple and easy to read the bets and plenty of time to make the bets yourself (One of my concerns was I'm in Canada and much of these soccer matches are overseas so I was worried the bets would get posted at like 3am for me but that is not the case)

On Sunday the 21st I deposited $100 into an account because I wanted to do a $100 challenge for a week. Granted, the bets I placed were relatively low amounts ($10-20 value at the times) I have doubled that $100 into $200

Currently 9/10 on bets this week. (Would have been 10/11 but I mis-bet due to a reading error on my end)

damndoe - July 6, 2019, 10:56 pm

I wish that services like this would be more honest. You arent maintaining 82%, its just not possible. You may have a hot run but youre going to have a cold run too.

Its very misleading. For those who are novice bettors and do not know this (i bet a lot) they have a huge contest in vegas where people have to show their bets and the top handicappers in the world compete against eachother for a million+ prize pool. They will never get 80%+ accuracy and these are the best in the world.

Just be honest and say hey, on the year I was able to do 60% which is actually pretty good and profitable.

I understand what you mean and In fact I think we should make the calculations at the end of each month not after 5 days, anyway feel free to follow this thread to see next results!

And yes I agree that 80% is difficult but everyone have a different strategy you can have for example 40% win ratio and still being in surplus with a lot of profits

Or, you can have 90% win ratio but still loosing money because you bet on 1.05 odds only.

It is just an example of course, it is not only about win ratio, it is about having a strategy, study and have a good money management pattern, results will be achieved,

If you have any questions I'm here

I received a trial of Golden Bet.

The tips come in the form of a private forum post that contained only the recommended bet amount, match, and predicted outcome for several soccer or tennis matches for that day.

You could set up a notification to be delivered to your email upon the posting of picks.

In my opinion, this is a works until it doesn't kinda deal. You're bound to have hot streaks and cold streaks.

For this to be a definite buy for me there needs to be more sustenance such as discussion/group interactivity with fellow bettors, explanations behind why this pick is likely to win, and possibly more sports.

I am a degenerate gambler and poker (NL'HE/PLO/PLOHL) is my poison of choice. However I am in no way involved with sports nor track them.

I did have a positive return after my week's trial.

I hope this gives other members a bit of insight as to whether this is a good use of their capital.

You get bets every 3-4 Hours by the looks of things with advised amounts for begginers and who to bet on.

EDIT: I just got off the phone to the bank, turns out when i gave my vouch i thought i had deposited more than i thought turns out even with the mistake on my side and a loss i still profited. im looking forward to todays bets already won 1 and have another 3 waiting to start later today.

Huge Vouch Great Guy and easy signals to follow. I was using it and it was like 85 - 90% accurate when I joined easy and huge profit also he tells you how much to bet and if you just follow his steps no way you shouldn't be making $300+ or more a month. Better then ebooks which you don't know you will profit from. He has all his profit info public etc. Nice dude as well and easy to talk to would highly recommend

I mean 66% of the games hes having you bet are projecting a 80%+ chance of winning them. You could win 4 and lose 1 and still not even be profitable...? Are there parlays given, to counterbalance the super poor odds? The bets are literally on -400 American IE: Bet $400 and receive $100 if the pick wins. That's not good...

That proof of your win ratio being 82% can easily be fake, which I think it is.

I can provide you a little bit of general knowledge, and then I'll touch up on the post below you and what it quoted...

All games have betting lines that are determined by the book, and they go up or down based on multiple factors like where people are throwing money (so they hedge their games and profit regardless ideally), news like someone getting hurt, etc.

Theres many ways to view odds:

American: +/-100 is even odds. you bet $100, you win $100

+XXX indicates an underdog, -XXX is the favorite

Decimal: even odds are 2.0

Above 2 is the dog to win, based on whatever the odds are by your book, under 2 is whatever.

Fractions and Probability to win are others. Anyways all have a percentage. Let me take his first bet of Celtic FC at 1.22 odds for example.

That is equivalent to -455 American and means that the book has deemed this bet 82% likely you're going to win it. In short. You need to bet $455 to win $100 (return is $555, $100profit)

If you make this bet 5 times.

They're suggesting you're going to win it 4 times out of 5 bets. If you make this bet 5x, and win 4, you're losing $55. But they're suggesting its likely to happen so people jump on that like "woo free money" but lack realization that return is extremely minimal.

At the end of the day, "a win is a win" but when you're talking about gambling, its whether you're profitable. Betting at such ridiculous odds you're probably just losing money.

My average soccer bet is +150 right now which suggests 40%chance to win. But I'm profitable on the bets with a higher return than the chump change on low odds. Anyways best of luck, the W% doesnt mean profit.

Anyways, theres no real jealousy to be had. His post isnt really constructive though which could be read into as sales trashing. However, let me get into my point. This is a common marketing tactic used by bettors to lure people in by advertising their Win Ratio/Percentage and nothing else. What you must learn is that W% doesnt equate to profitability. You can win 80% of games and lose money due to the value/odds per bet. So anyways not to say this service is trash, but ideally you want to know what the overall yield or return on investment is. How many units up is the bettor on how many games.

He does have spreadsheets that show his "profit" but as this comment suggests -- despite being a competitor -- it's extremely easy to skip putting the games I lost on it... theres online betting databases that you can track, and not edit, your picks like blogabet. You can view mine:

<https://barr.blogabet.com/>

Here you get all the info. my win percentages. Yield. Units up. Average odds on my games. It's more impressive to see these numbers than simply "82% WR" on trash odds with an excel sheet.

Hi, I tried to contact you in pm yesterday, anyway I can see the earning in every cell of the spreadsheet not sure what issue you have but seems on your side, and nope ATM no month was closed in loss at all

If you can explain be what cell you see missing we can try to figure out what is happening but on my side it is all fine

Today was good! 7 won and 3 lost!

From next day we are adding a kind of cash out bets to make sure we can close more days with profits without risky if we already made some bets won!

Just contact me if you need help on this thing ?

As I said in my original comment. "In your OP" there are months were there is no win/loss ratio, you should fix that as it there in the spreadsheet but not in your post. Also your win rations are out for August, September, October and November by 5%, 2%, 0.5% and 5% respectively, not insignificant amounts when gambling. You should fix that. December is missing, what happened there? If you could post your ongoing ROI&LSP it could be beneficial for sales or it might deter some people. Just a thought.

The op is just a description of my product, everything you need to know is posted in the spreadsheet with a simple clickable link

As for win ratio my calc seems right and I can say it is not important at all in betting, it is way more important the profits made minus the bets loss,

As for December and January will be posted later, nothing happened I'm just very busy and need to finish some projects first, bets are still goin well as always Doesn't have to be labeled on the thread when every piece of information is clear on the spreadsheets.

Might buy this soon.

Your calc is wrong. 4 out of 7 of or your win ratios are wrong. If you think 5 percent isn't important in betting, you are very wrong. You should post your ongoing LSP and ROI. I took the liberty of calculating your ROI for October which was 7.57%, 8385 staked with a 635.3 return. A win is a win.

My calculations tell me for January you will have had to have placed 172 bets, staking $8100 in total in order to return $8495, a 62% win rate may seem high but your return on investment is only 4.88%, this is only true for single bets, but accumulators, doubles etc will obviously yield a higher % of return on investment.

Betting doesn't work like that, your investment base is always the same you are just using your money in different bets but the base is not $8100 lol

I will make an example to make it more clear

Let's say you have $1000 and you put them in bank, bank will say you will get 3% of your investment after a year

You will get $30 then

But you are not investing $1000 each day during this year you putted $1000 only not $365.000

It's the same for betting, you start with a base of let's say $500 end at the end of the year/month you get some profits but doesn't matter if you bet each day or once a week the money you invested are always $500 and most probably you will not even need to use them all you are using always the same amount that keep playing each day to bring profits

Hope this helped someone to understand how things works

I know how betting works so I wont even read that. Read my post more accurately.

<https://www.calculator.net/roi-calculator.html?beginbalance=8100&endbalance=8495&investmenttime=date&investmentlength=2.5&beginbalanceday=02%2F27%2F2020&endbalanceday=12%2F31%2F2024&ctype=1&x=71&y=13>

Ok, what was your initial investment? It says $50 on the latest sheet. If you only have $50, you don't bet that $50 and spunk your bankroll on the first bet, you bet maybe 10%. I think you are confusing initial investment and bankroll, you seem not to have a bankroll as such but an apparent bottomless pit of money. You should have a suggested bankroll and staking plan. On a side note, you kept using the same amount on the last sheet ($50), so there's that.

I scaled my balance with time re investing profits, right now I'm using $50 on each match, counting a 4% stake as $50 for the money management strategy.

My actual balance is $1200 counting in this way and I bet $50 that's 4% of that amount

But again that's up to users too they can either bet less using a smaller initial amount or risk more and bet more than 4%

I signed up yesterday and already in the profit. From the bets posting from the service, I can say it is a high odds of winning bets, I think around 70-80%, which is enough to profit. I started with a smaller bankroll, so it will take me a few days or maybe 2 weeks to get up to making bigger bets and higher profits, but I will vouch for this service.

Unfortunately I got scammed by a fake duepi, so I have to recoup my losses from that, but that's my fault for not verifying 100% before I sent payment. Payment sent through the autobuy link he has worked very well and I was up and running in a matter of minutes.

Thanks.

Betting on favourites who have really short odds is a good way to lose money.

My calculations tell me for January you will have had to have placed 172 bets, staking $8100 in total in order to return $8495, a 62% win rate may seem high but your return on investment is only 4.88%, this is only true for single bets, but accumulators, doubles etc will obviously yield a higher % of return on investment. I'll pass thanks.

I haven't read through your 27 pages on this thread. But can I ask why you offer this "fully scalable" service.

Surely you could just keep re-investing your own money to make big bank to the point where selling this service would be peanuts?

What do you gain?

One thing you could do is back the selections before you tell all your friends to back and then lay against the selection a few hours later since they would've driven the odds down. But that would be unethical.

Do you still provide a 15$ 15 day trial?

I'm guessing the spreadsheets are from your "bot" placing the bets which isn't entirely representative of what we would be able to do as we get delayed notifications/bets (only human) from you relative to your bot.

Do you have any long term customers (3 months+) who we could talk to

Any information behind how you decide a bet is worth making?

duepi - September 21, 2020, 1:19 pm

Quote:I haven't read through your 27 pages on this thread. But can I ask why you offer this "fully scalable" service.

I'm offering this service since it's profitable and scalable,

I just get extra money from that and selling my tips doesn't damage my bets so why not,

Really I'm not getting the point of your question but ok :)

Surely you could just keep re-investing your own money to make big bank to the point where selling this service would be peanuts? First, it's always an extra, second is really easy and doesn't waste my time so again why not,

One thing you could do is back the selections before you tell all your friends to back and then lay against the selection a few hours later since they would've driven the odds down. But that would be unethical.

That's not what I do at all, and even if it is technically possible you will need a lot of users that put a lot of money simultaneously to change some odds, even if the odds change doesn't mean you will earn automatically.

It's just way easier to bet properly.

Do you still provide a 15$ 15 day trial?

Yes

I'm guessing the spreadsheets are from your "bot" placing the bets which isn't entirely representative of what we would be able to do as we get delayed notifications/bets (only human) from you relative to your bot.

The bot stopped some month ago, now it's everything manual

Do you have any long term customers (3 months+) who we could talk to,

I don't know that, I don't keep track of that honestly

Any information behind how you decide a bet is worth making?

Stats, math, experience, odds analysis, lineup and something else too

duepi - September 22, 2020, 1:21 pm

Just Saw ur posts from this month, Kinda not good Way u betting, fast to lose all your money, u Bet 100 lose Bet 200 lose Bet 400 than u Bet 800 and win What if u Lost 800??

And almost u have more Loses than wins

duepi - October 6, 2020, 12:35 pm

Seems you are not so much expert on betting,

Win ratio and profits are 2 different things, you can have 90% bet won and close with a big loss, but you can also have 2% win ratio playing big combo bets and close with profits.

The Right way to balance all doesn't exist, every tipster use a method or a personal strategy, I have mine and you can check the results on top of the spreadsheets for each month, I see pretty good profits actually.

What happens if I lost a bet of $800?

I lost $800, nothing more, it happened 2 times and we still closed the month with a lot of profits.

the stake it's just a factor to be considered into the strategy, as many other things

Im going to go ahead and vouch for this service.

Screenshot is unfair to the service (Their calls this week should have pushed me up to around $760 but I took some additional prop bets in different games.)

So far this month in February I am up almost $1k on my initial $1k deposit. Clearing upwards of $160 a day lots of calls for tomorrow so looking forward to doing a slight yolo before my guy pays me out monday.

Would recommend this service.

The only thing I do not like, but its apart of the betting strategy is the strategy for betting they tell you to use. It works well for small banks but could liquidate you fast if you do not watch it. Would recommend flat betting these as the win rate is upwards of 70% at this point following the advice of not betting anymore after wins for specific callouts.

Pretty steady money and will continue to use this service while doing my own research in combination.

Could not be happier. (Right now)

Wheezy Gang - February 25, 2021, 1:33 pm

I joined this group at the start of February and I want to just say, wow, been making good profits. The bets are posted in a nicely organized thread on a private forum, very simple and easy to read the bets and plenty of time to make the bets yourself (One of my concerns was I'm in Canada and much of these soccer matches are overseas so I was worried the bets would get posted at like 3am for me but that is not the case)

On Sunday the 21st I deposited $100 into an account because I wanted to do a $100 challenge for a week. Granted, the bets I placed were relatively low amounts ($10-20 value at the times) I have doubled that $100 into $200 (Bitcoin value went down since Sunday, but if we account for that then yes we've doubled)

Currently 9/10 on bets this week. (Would have been 10/11 but I mis-bet due to a reading error on my end)

Your results for this month in your published spreadsheet are absolutely awful?

If you'd bet an even amount on your picks in that spreadsheet you'd be negative profit. That's not a premium service imo. Let me know if you have any real premium tip success. Thanks.

Here is the Results. From 19th June till 24th June.

I was able to place totally 14 bets.

Won - 7

Lost 7

Win Rate - 50%

OP suggested to double the amount when the previous match is lost. However the matches fall on same times or close to each other hence might be difficult to follow.

I will keep posting about the results every week or twice a week.

Can you confirm that spreadsheets are correct ? I did some maths and if I used constant betting amount for each bet in May and June I'd earn quite a lot. Considering I don't have access to what was predicted before the match I have no way of confirming that spreadsheets are same as what was given to buyers.

this strategy if fully scalable so you can start with any amount.

starting balance counted when? at the beginning of each month? 2 years ago when I started this service?

that's a bit vague I can't give you a number on that actually.

amount for each bet is posted in the sheet and it is indicated for each bet everytime.

Ok, I'll try to be more clear: what was your starting balance when you started your service? If I see, let's say, 50$ on a bet on your file, I have to consider 50$ on how much total balance?

And is it fixed? Is it a percentage?

Thanks.

So far, no updates anywhere from support or in the one and only place that appears to have suggestions posted

All the games are going for today and nothing has been started, support ticket not looked at.

Bummer. I am going to just request a refund as this was not what I expected. Hopefully they pull through

Can i have a trial for this service?

cristiano442 - January 22, 2022, 10:13 am

I bought the service on 20 January and used it until today. Using the tips provided by the seller and betting the amounts suggested, my betting balance was reduced by \$522. I do not recommend the service based on several things:

1. Most if not all the bets are over/under 2.5 goals with an added martingale strategy (stop if win and double if loss)
2. The win rate is 50-60% every month. (based on his tracking)
3. The monthly profits are ok because of some 800, 1000, or 2000$ bets. (check every month for large bets and profits made that month)

Draw your conclusion but in the long term, this kind of betting strategy isn't profitable.

Quote:I bought the service on 20 January and used it until today. Using the tips provided by the seller and betting the amounts suggested, my betting balance was reduced by \$522. I do not recommend the service based on several things:

I'm sorry to hear that, sorry for your loss, the issue here is that you followed just 2 days, we closed with profits all months as you can see form the spreadsheet and that's why I offer a monthly plan, it's safe long term and you avoid some bad days that always can happen and happened other months too, but in the full month we make profits

1. Most if not all the bets are over/under 2.5 goals with an added martingale strategy (stop if win and double if loss)

Correct, that's the key to make profits long term in my strategy

2. The win rate is 50-60% every month. (based on his tracking)

Correct and that's why on average doubling 2 times you make profits in the long term each month

3. The monthly profits are ok because of some 800, 1000, or 2000$ bets. (check every month for large bets and profits made that month)

Yes that's right and public, in fact doubling the amount is a part of the strategy, but let me remind that every user can follow this method with a different stake so you are not forced to place the same amount I do, you can bet $5 instead of $50 if needed for example

Draw your conclusion but in the long term, this kind of betting strategy isn't profitable.

From the spreadsheet facts are different on that, it's profitable long term and all months are in profits

cristiano442 - January 23, 2022, 7:48 am

Let me break down your gameplay. I'll go month by month (excluding January and using your spreadsheet).

In December you made a $1477 monthly profit but on the spreadsheet are two large size bets - a $1000 bet (loss) and a $2000 bet ($2400 win). Besides the fact that someone has to have $3000, that $2400 win was reduced by the rest of the bets.

In November you made $1507 monthly profit but on the spreadsheet are two large size bets - an $800 bet ($808 win) and a $1000 bet ($80 win). The rest of the bets are just a risk.

In October you made $2000 monthly profit but on the spreadsheet are five large size bets, all winners ($5400 in total). You lost the rest in other small size bets.

September was your best month. $1750 made from relatively small bets.

August - $1800 monthly profit, $1800 profit from big bets. The rest of the bets were an unnecessary risk.

July - $1025 monthly profit, $2780 profit from big bets. Loss on the rest of the bets.

Even if you bet smaller (10-50%), the risk-reward ratio is wrong (might as well bet on dice or roulette). You get the gist. I'm not a bad guy so let me tell you how you can improve this. Find a partner who knows how to bet on sports so you can have a small losing streak. You can be the guy focused on strategy (set a max to lose streak based on every client bankroll so you can set every bet based on units, not $; research kelly's criterion and find that edge for bigger clients). You have to realize that your clients don't have that big bankroll to bet 3k on two matches, most of them are normal people with a few hundred to spare on an easy money scheme. Have a good day!

OP is a really nice guy and you can make money from this tips, I followed for some months, but it's risky as fuck. I can confirm what you're saying, almost all months profits comes from 1-2 big bets.

Besides that, the biggest problem of the tips are that sometimes you can find the odds OP posts. Many 400 and 800 bets that are used to recover the previous losses are 1.60 odds meanwhile OP says they're 1.80/1.90, which makes them unprofitable and you lose money.

thanks for the idea, it's not a bad thing but my service is focused on sharing my bets with my personal strategy, for just $1 a day, that's it.

I don't deal with the money management of every users for a simple fact, users join my service during a whole month so each user will have a different starting budget but also a different profits margin or loss already made, so it's not possible to say "bet 20% of your starting wallet on those 3 matches" for example because some users may not have that amount available at the moment or others may be able to bet more to scale.

So, using the starting amount can't work, using the actual amount doesn't work too, since when you lose a bet your 10% stake for example is less than your previous 10% for the math, this will lead in the long term to lose money even winning games and it is not acceptable.

The other option is plain staking the same amount on all matches, is it a good idea?

If you backtest this option versus my strategy you will see that it's always way less profitable than mine.

I can make some example to show you what I mean.

With an average odds of 1.85 and a 50% win ratio and 100 matches made, we can say 50 won and 50 loss so, plain betting same amount, for example $50 will end the month in loss with $2125 made and $2500 lost so $ - 375 net loss.

Using my strategy with same 50% win ratio you will end the month winning 50 bets and losing 50, since you compensated the loss doubling you have a net win of $2125.

You may say that plain betting is not good because win ratio is too low, and that's correct but there is only one case where it is as good as my strategy, and that's when you have 100% win ratio, that is clearly impossible.

now I want to show what happens if you improve win ratio, that is one thing that you may think it is the issue.

We counted with 50% win ratio and saw that plain staking wasn't profitable, if you backtest using a 60% win ratio on 100 bets with a $50 on each we will have 60 won and 40 lost, with the same average odds of 1.85 you will get:

$2550 won and $2000 lost that's $550 net earned.

using my strategy you will get $2550 net.

the difference here is so big to not be worth to use a "safer method" that's always less profitable

https://onedrive.live.com/view.aspx?resid=AB53A92724C1EE2D!1213&ithint=file%2Cxlsx&authkey=!AGoRTT_hIO2fFxs

this is last September for example here is super simple to see that 62%win ratio 43 won 32 lost $1750 made with plain betting same bets you will get $475 is it worth? I don't think so, even betting $100 on each will close the month with $950.

in the end I think that of course everything can be improved and tailored for the needing of each user, but this need to be done user side eventually.

it's not possible for me to manage each wallet of each user.

thanks for your feedback anyway and wish you a nice day?
