Thread: Opinions on Yakusoku no Neverland\(The Promised Neverland\)?

Seeing how it's been a few months since it's release now, What are your opinions on it, Spoiler \(Click to View\) And are you looking forward to a new season?

My Opinion \(Click to View\) Promised Neverland, in my mind the best spring show of 2019. To start off, the introduction of the anime started in a very somber but happy setting, giving us the impression of an anime that might just be a slice of life. However, this slow pace of the first two episodes suddenly sets so much more of the story into motion and from there continues to build up the rest of the story in a sort of domino effect. All in all, the brilliant use of silence and emotions, a definitive sense of suspense is always present, keeping the viewers on the edge.

I've only watched the first 2 episodes but I really like it so far :) This thread reminded me about it, I remember seeing a trailer before it was released.

Good adaption.

Twists to come.

I just finished watching it, it was amazing, will there be a second season? I wonder what life is like for them now.

Spoiler \(Click to View\) I wish Norman made it though
