You start by posting with reasonable quality (>35 characters) instead of LQ posts like this one. ?

Bad jokes aside, the more useful content you add, the more people will get to know you.

?ndrew - July 6, 2019, 2:24 pm

Being famous isn't all its hyped up to be, trust me!

I just wanna make friends and network.

Like rn, If you ask me telme one person whom you know on hf. I would blink

I just wanna have a couple of mates and chill

Lavish Living - July 6, 2019, 2:31 pm

Drop $5k+ on awards, be a major kiss ass towards Omni, join a crew and start trolling everyone else in competing crews....

That'll get you some popularity, not necessarily good popularity though.

Hmmm, Why do you say that? Like rn. Atleast 200+ People know Someone named Mr. robot exits on hf.

Not even 10% Of that would know me... It is always nice to have a brand for yourself.

I had over 2000 people rep me for helping them -doesn't change much except how many dms you get shoup33 - July 6, 2019, 3:26 pm

I prefer laying low and just browsing usually, the new reward system has me wanting to post more though.

You should change your thread title.

Bad jokes aside, the more useful content you add, the more people will get to know you.

Is staffing this site a joke to you? ?

and yeah, webdev is right. Content and Networking. Content is a lot harder than Networking imo, it doesn't take much to get to know other members and get a feel for the whole HF scene. When thinking about content you probably want to go for something that's going to be actually useful. A lot of people here have incredible technical skill, which is great, but share things that aren't really within grasp for 95% of members. And while I see threads like these as high quality and good for the site... you're looking to make friends. Keep it simple and useful.

SIM-3257834 - July 6, 2019, 6:50 pm

Its better to be low key than popular

Bad jokes aside, the more useful content you add, the more people will get to know you.Or just make crap jokes - get that sweet, sweet popularity and hope you don't get banned from your LQ crap jokes.

Mix - July 6, 2019, 6:59 pm

make some HQ threads, get the staff to know who you are, buy a load of award to stand out, Sell some shitty products on the hf market and still make money from them, et in a load of groups and smoke weed some nights to make yourself 420 cool

Black Kodak - July 6, 2019, 8:43 pm

The best way to get known is to open a CE thread, and get a sticky.

You will get more PM's than you could ever fathom.
