Personally, i think good retros are hard to find.

Like this retro you're basically advertising, you start with 50k and rares are like 1mil+.

I found this retro a few days ago, you start with 0 and get 1 credit every 15 mins, which the economy on this will be great, probably better than habbo.com considering this retro is 100% free. You can't donate for this and that.

Check it out, www.habbobba.com

People play retros to build big rooms and not have to worry about credits. They might aswell play the real version then lol.

Agree to disagree.

Some people play retros to trade, sell and gamble for free of cost.

I get that some people play just to build rooms yes, there's tons of retros for that, but not everyone is on retros for the same reason.

Having a retro with a broke economy is useless gambling would be useless, trading and selling would also be useless, to my eyes.
