Hey if i am logged in with discord account, can i still create a hackforums account? or will it be listed under multiple accounts which is against the rules?

Also will i still have the same profile (Posts etc.)

Thank you for reading

I think it'll probably be against the rules i would wait for a staff to respond you can also change your username once you're upgraded if you're interested!

Your account is a hackforums account. You have access to everything a normal HF user does.

From this point forward, if you'd like to give rep or change your name, or many other different features, you can upgrade your forum account to the l33t usergroup.

Wait the question isn't answered though. can you have your username be your discord tag? If you don't specifically say it's for discord but others may recognize it and try to add it?

Or no? Since OP has his discord tag as his username.

Anyone who sign up using Discord (one of the Social Media Account) automatically gets his username as their Discord Name.

Posting discord username is allowed, posting discord channels isnt. Read Help Docs for more info
