Thread: Alternative to selly.gg and rocketr

Fhack - July 15, 2019, 10:25 am

Hi im searching for a great alternative to selly.gg that is definety to expansive with a month plan. I've tryed rocketr but i have to pay minerfees two time and rocker fees, on 30$ they took 5$ it's too much...

Can you suggest me good alternative ?

James Burnham - July 15, 2019, 10:31 am

What do you want to sell? There are many sites like rocketr but not all kinds of products are allowed there

I have pmED you a site on private.

Shoppyy.gg is the best autobuy and system and the only alternative for those two.

Icy.Services - July 15, 2019, 10:56 am

<https://atshop.io> (Paid)

<https://shoppyy.gg>

Fhack - July 15, 2019, 11:43 am

Thanks for your suggestions i will use shoppyy.gg

Rocketr is an overpriced piece of shit. Use shoppyy.gg

Yeah feel the same about rocketr. at first i thought shoppyy.gg was a fishing page for selly.gg but now i'm ok with this website.

Axe - July 15, 2019, 1:03 pm

If you have the time I'd recommend you implement the PayPal/Stripe API and some free crypto API (like Coinbase Commerce) yourself to save a substantial amount in fees. I went with Selly when I first launched my service and the amount I've lost in fees was not worth the time I saved going with another intermediary.

Yes im thinking about that but atm shoppy.gg is a good alternative with lower fees than selly.gg. How many fees take coinbase api for payment ?

Porn - July 15, 2019, 1:19 pm

Don't use selly, rocketr or shoppy.

I bought a github student account awhile back for $1 and they offer stripe with no fees. You receive a $30 payment you will get the full $30 no fees included.

Coinbase Commerce charges no fees. Their API docs and testing tools aren't as good as Stripe, but if you know what you're doing you'll get it up and running in no time

Yeah but what about Bitcoin payments and other crypto currencies?

I'm not too sure, I've only used coinpayments in the past its easy to integrate and very reliable when compared to these other websites.

Vyxn - July 16, 2019, 10:40 pm

$5 for an autobuy system? I think you should have just go with you own system then.

Anyway, selly.gg & shoppy.gg is cheaper than rocketr.

I believe rocktr or whatever is part-managed by hf user founatinhead. You should discuss with him.

I don't get why u can't just accept btc out of the box. Is there any specific reason to use rocketr/selly

Anyway, selly.gg & shoppy.gg is cheaper than rocketr.

With selly.gg you need now to take a billing plan to start selling : 19,99$ per month and they still take 2.5% fees and they use coinpayments api for crypto payment and coinpayments also take 0.5% fees on each transaction so they are definitely the worst auto-buy website.

(Jul 17, 2019 12:00 PM)jebb Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) I don't get why u can't just accept btc out of the box. Is there any specific reason to use rocketr/selly

Cause it's less time consuming and they auto-adjust the amount of crypto according to its current value. And they automatically send serial code in an email when transaction is confirmed.

Hey! Based on your needs, you should definitely look into CoinMall.

We're like Selly/Shopp/Rocketr, but with a lot more features and perks: We provide you with a crypto wallet, so you don't have to pay TX fees for every payment you receive. You can withdraw whenever suits you best and just pay one transaction fee.

0% fees. No monthly billing plan either, and all crypto payments are processed in-house, so no third parties involved.

Accept PayPal, Stripe as well as a plethora of cryptocurrencies including Bitcoin, Ethereum, Litecoin and Tether (USDT)

No KYC/AML procedures. You can register and start selling immediately.

The above is just a small list of what we offer, feel free to check out our thread here for a more comprehensive list: <https://hackforums.net/showthread.php?tid=5949479>

- Sellers to aggregate funds before withdrawing, minimizing TX fees over the earned money

- Sellers to accept various crypto without worrying about maintaining multiple wallets, private keys and whatnot
- Buyers to instantly buy a virtual product without waiting for X on-chain confirmations, which can take hours, hence massively enhancing the buyer experience by a number of factors
- Buyers to purchase sub-$ products without paying a fee costing more than the product itself (no-one wants to buy a 20 cent product and pay a $3 fee)

These are just a few examples, so however you look at it, a custodial solution is far superior to a simple payment forwarder.

I agree it's a superior solution, but there should definitely be a solid element of trust established before introducing a custodial solution. Not taking a jab at your service, but afaik it hasn't been around for a long time, and I wouldn't trust any relatively new website to hold more than a couple hundred dollars at a time.

BTW, how do you plan on staying legit without any KYC procedures? I imagine that'll be mandatory once you get bigger and are still holding funds

If everyone who wanted to launch a product let that stop them we'd barely see any competition. Can't blame a man for trying.

Agreed, it will definitely take some time to establish ourselves in the market. In the meantime, we've also got the option to auto-forward any incoming payments.

As for the KYC procedures, we'd have to look into it after we start gaining some steam, but I don't imagine it'll be much of an issue since other platforms don't seem to do it either (such as Shoppy/Bitify)

You're comparing a WordPress site with an auction theme to a custom, purpose-built solution. Unlike Bitify, we're far more scalable and offer features they cannot provide. This is also the reason why many of their top-rated sellers have already started migrating to CoinMall.

How so?

1. We've got thousands of registered sellers & products listed without any issues
2. Have had exactly zero scams thanks to our Escrow system.
3. Unlike alternatives, founders are not anonymous and/or involved in any unethical projects

Shoppy.gg is perfectly fine, no need to reinvent the wheel with trusting an "in-house crypto wallet". Storing your crypto on an online service is a very nice way to lose it, given most of them don't last more than two-three years.

You do realize that Shoppy also stores your funds, before forwarding it to you? Similarly, you can simply set up a payment forwarding address on CoinMall, so any payment is directly forwarded to you once the transaction is finalized. There's no difference in that regard.

Speaking of long-lasting companies, do you trust Shoppy to be around for much longer? Perhaps you may want to look into who the owner is and what projects they're involved in.

No insult intended but you're kinda being a tad obnoxious by just repeatedly talking about your service - It's not doing you any good and if anything, it's likely to make people consider not using it - at least in my own humble opinion, you're overselling.

That being said, Shoppy has been around for a while and no issues whatsoever.

There's absolutely no privacy difference between using one service or the other. We currently even host a few hundred former Shoppy sellers whose stores got deleted and/or their info passed on.

show me where shoppy users have been closed as highly doubt any have hence why came from selly to shoppy. as selly enforces dmca etc where shoppy dont give a fuckk

Cyber Coder - September 29, 2019, 1:03 pm

selly was the best before integrating 3rd party payments

i use shoppy now but is like the low budget version of selly tons of bugs, sometimes i get 3 emails for the same purchase

i need to check each order manually since sometime glitches and payment is not forwarded

1 time i even saw the order with my own eyes then refreshed the page and dissaperead, support said such order doesn't exist even tho the buyer had a screenshot with it after paying it (order still went through tho)

support less payments options than selly used to, even PM is missing

rocketr was nice until aeonhack got arrested and they shitted their pants and started their banning spree along with rats owners
