Thread: Is binance still safe? What is a safe exchange at the moment?

Mr. Moe - July 17, 2019, 10:28 am

The volatility of the market looks nice, I would like to start trading bitcoin. What are some safe exchanges at the moment?

why wouldnt binance be a safe exchange? pretty sure there are no problems in it.
it "got hacked" for 40 milion a few months ago (or weeks idk) but CZ paid for any damage. so honestly, pretty safe.

yeah atm, binance is #1 exchange IMO.

Binance is in my opinion the safest exchange
And the exchange itself doesn't got hacked. The users where phished(and I guess some other methods)
So if you always login safe(check url). You should be fine

However if you want more security I advice you to buy a pc that you only use for cryptocurrency. Or a different browser binance got bnb @ 8th position at market , they wont have any problem paying their customers if something goes on

& there is a certain risk keeping your coins in a exchange even how secure they said it is .

is binance still tradeable for USA peeps?

If you want to margin trade check out Deribit

I'd like to use Binance but nobody in the US can register unless they have a vpn.

I currently use Coinbase. It's clean and wicked easy to use but fees aren't good and only limited amount of coins on there to buy.

Binance is great but if youe a US resident then you need a VPN. KuCoin is a pretty decent exchange as well. I use it almost daily but if you're looking for obscure alts then its 50/50 if KuCoin has it.

They are gonna stop servicing US account on September 12. Binance is starting an exchange for US costumers that will be approved by FinCEN.

Yeah, they're allowing US accounts to operate for a short while but sometime this fall they're going to stop before they launch Binance.us

I'll probably move to kraken then, unless they do the same

Secretgod - July 21, 2019, 1:11 pm

Bittrex is pretty solid in my opinion, never heard any downside about them.

I agree Bittrex is good (the guy's behind it are supposed to be very opsec focused) - I have not heard of any hacks [I am sure there will have been though]. Nobody has mentioned Coinbase pro - lots of haters - but there are some good trade options there now and reasonable liquidity.

Im in Canada and I use bitbuy (canadians only) it has the lowest fees. Highly recommend it for other canadian hf btc enthusiasts.
