Thread: Favorite Nav Item

Omniscient - July 28, 2019, 11:29 am

So there are 4 nav items in header.

In order of appearance, the Favs, New Posts, Your Threads, and Your Posts.

The Favs is an upgrade feature which allows you to set forums to view new posts from. So for example you only want to see Marketplace Discussion, PSS, and RANF when you View New Posts then with Favs you can do that. The rest I think are self-explanatory.

I personally use Your Threads the most. From there that search result will show me any of my threads with new posts and I can click to immediately go to the unread messages.

But let's take a poll and find out what your most widely used Nav Item is for browsing HF.

I often use "Your Thread," and I believe the maximum active users would prefer to check their threads first. Although "Your Post" comes handy at times, but I never used Favourites or New Posts till now.

flavoral - July 28, 2019, 11:35 am

I've never used the "Favorites" features so far.

cobaltstrike - July 28, 2019, 11:35 am the only one that i can figure out is PM lol

the rest i have to fumble around to get right

Bastille - July 28, 2019, 11:35 am

Thanks for that ?

How can I edit the categories of new threads shown by Favs ?

For example, not interested about Money, market, ... But want to show Tech, Hack, ...

Thanks ?

123 - July 28, 2019, 11:37 am

I'm pretty sure daily visitors excessively use "New Posts" . I'm one of them.

SIM-1729678 - July 28, 2019, 11:37 am

New posts, it allow me to see what is going on around the forum.

Go to: <https://hackforums.net/usercp.php?action=options>

Scroll down to the bottom and CTRL + Click to add multiple favorites. Now that we're on the subject, it'd be cool to favorite a forum area, kind of like subscribing to a thread.

DrDoof - July 28, 2019, 11:40 am

Used to use the New Posts link but since the Favorites feature was added I've used that, really surprised to see it's not more popular duplex - July 28, 2019, 11:41 am

Doesn't Favorites and New Threads bring up the same page?

SoulZeh - July 28, 2019, 11:48 am

100% new posts so I can spam report on posts I need to, because I'm just a cunt like that.

Mr. Robot - July 28, 2019, 11:54 am

"The Favs is an upgrade feature which allows you to set forums to view new posts from."

Ok Omni I take it all back, view new posts is in the perfect position as long as people know this info. The biggest concern with the view new posts was it had a bunch of forums people didn't want in there - such as ewhoring/marketplace/gaming,

I thought it was just for favorite threads/subscription type thing.

>>Still a little confused on how we add things to favorites. I'll look around.

After looking around, I still couldn't find where to add the sections. Checked the top of each section as well as individual threads and user CP. Right now favorites just does the same as view new posts.

Settings ~ Edit Options ~ Search/Add Favorites, at the very bottom took me a while to find too. After adding it I still only use view new posts though lol.

This is the original Favorites Feature release thread.

I think it's very misunderstood not widely used but it's an excellent feature. I was added because a lot of members wanted a way to view new posts but exclude sections like Lounge. So we made it, announced it, and hardly anyone really uses it. Sometimes that happens.

Careless - July 28, 2019, 12:25 pm

I use the "New Posts" and "Private Messages" the most. Overall, new posts probably a little more.

I honestly missed that one and I think a lot of people missed it. So many people have suggested or wanted it not knowing it already existed.

Nas - July 28, 2019, 12:31 pm

After the alert system was released I stopped using Your Threads and Your Posts. I just use New Posts now.

I think there's a lot of stuff people missed on there and the exact wording "Search Favorites" went over a lot of heads as just some thread addition where you can keep track of favorite posts/threads. (subscriptions).

I don't know the exact statistics but if this feature was more heavily talked about, I think that alone would get people wanting to upgrade.

Jimmie - July 28, 2019, 12:50 pm

I have two favorites new post, my threads I never use the rest of them.

Blogger - July 28, 2019, 1:14 pm

Definitely New Posts. I never use my Favourites. I'll use the other two every so often.

Omniscient - July 28, 2019, 1:19 pm

I altered the Favs link so that if you don't have it set you will be given the link to the Options page to do so. Should help get the feature more widely used.

Oh sick, that's awesome. Appreciate the quick changes.

?ytes - July 28, 2019, 6:33 pm

90% of the times I use "Your Threads" Nav. Item.

Favorites, just browsed for once I think.

Other than that, New Posts is another Nav Item I like to browse.

PremiumNewValue - July 28, 2019, 6:40 pm

I use Your Threads and New Posts a lot . . .

Natas - July 28, 2019, 6:47 pm

I been using new post on this forum as long as I can remember it will always be my favorite and most used icon.

Its very useful to be used to see what is up on the forum with a variety of different kind of posts / threads.

Cooligan - July 29, 2019, 11:01 am

Personally for me I would say either the "Your threads" or "Your posts" nav buttons the most.

However I also use every other nav button as it's just both the easiest and fastest way of finding what I'm looking for at the time, so I voted for "I use all".

Especially like you said, checking your threads for new posts, and checking your posts to see any new replies is very easy with the nav button options.

Maybe as a suggestion adding a nav button option for the groups and crews section would be really cool to see. The button would direct you to this page, here: Crews and Clans Private Forums

I used to use a script solely for showing me what groups I'm in, and clickable links for each group right up there on the nav bar. However this was many years ago, I just remember it being a really nice feature to have. ?

Sectoral - July 29, 2019, 11:22 am

I just returned after a long break from the forums but I would say since my return I've used the new posts but also used all equally in a way. The least one used for me was the "favorites" as I don't have any yet.
