I bought a 3D illustration course.

Learned to produce the following results:

Hey thanks, man,

I'll be making more artwork and learn 3D animations so I can make that for UI Designs as well.

It's blender and thanks.

You must be a beast if your modelling with blender. Respect Brother

Been a while since I've stopped by here and commented on any work and I'm glad to see you're still creating some dope stuff. I really like all of the isometric work and the subject matter for each one, even the more simple sushi. The only thing I think looks a little odd is the water before that entrance or cave door thing. Details look a little mucky.

Hey, thanks for the feedback, glad to hear you like what you see.

I intended for that to be a portal, next iteration I'll have to look up inspiration for portals for this kind of art-style.
