You mean contacts? For Gmail the way is:

Quote:1. Click the "Gmail" drop-down menu in the navigation pane on the left after logging in to your account. Select "Contacts."

2. Click the "More" drop-down menu above your contacts and select "Export."

3. Click "The Group" and select the group you wish to extract from the drop-down menu. You can choose "My Contacts," "Most Contacted" or any of the custom groups you have created.

Alternatively, click "All Contacts" to extract all contacts.

4. Click "Outlook CSV Format" or "vCard Format" if you plan to use the list outside of Gmail.

Otherwise, the default "Google CSV Format" allows you to import it into another Gmail account.

5. Click "Export."

6. Click "Save File," select "OK," choose a location where you want to save the file and give the file a name. Click "Save" to export the file.
