Thread: What do you think about this Drug Lord ?

123 - August 9, 2019, 11:47 am

I guess everyone knows about this Columbian Drug Mafia Pablo Emilio Escobar Gaviria.

I have read a lot about him. He was a dangerous personality but still once in a while it amazes me how tf would someone have such daring.

I would like to hear few facts about him from you guys which you think not everyone knows. What do you think about him ?

He spent 2.5K a month on rubber bands for his cash stacks. Imagine how many rubber bands you can get for 2.5K

Yeah he's well known. He got killed on the rooftop somewhere I believe.

I mostly know about El Chapo which means short stature (height)

Yeah. He was killed when he was at low point in life. In his peak time, he was untouchable.

It's often confused me how the feds manage to find and hunt these drug barons, I assume a snitch?

Honestly, I wanted to watch it, is it good? I mean I like shows with violence/realism.

I might watch tonight mmm.

The Colombian government was weak and the US hadn't really cracked down on drugs at that point in time, which is why I believe he could go so far with his crimes.

People say, there is a lot of money hidden all around Columbia which still isn't discovered.

Man transported tons of drugs in US. He was just playing around all intelligence and making bread. It was risky but potential was big. That's what made him special.

The main thing here where tf money is. There should be some sort of backup map if the main mao gets destroyed. Anyways, man left a legacy behind which is still discoverable.

I remember watching a documentary about him where he built his own prison, which was like a hotel. I also watched one where he smuggled multiple Hippopotamus to Colombia which caused chaos to the environment since it was not native there (prey - predator relationship).

3xploit - August 10, 2019, 12:39 pm

I remember he once said "There are 200 million idiots manipulated by 2 million smart people"...but he certainly wasn't one of the smart people. His business was successful because of his brother while Pablo was acting very naive for the most time. After his brother died everything went downhill. He was always acting very emotional. For example, after he felt personally insulted (by the government I beleive) he planted bombs in many cities in colombia and killed a lot of innocent people as revenge. He also threatened the German government because they wouldn't let his family get into the country. He killed busniess partners just because he didn't have a good day. All of this behaviour led to his downfall. He made more and more enemies (whole nations and other drug cartels). Only 2 years after he did that quote from above he was shot on a rooftop...
