Thread: Guide to Easy \$10 - \$50/day for beginners and starting your own Online Business

Lychnobius - August 10, 2019, 3:51 am

Lets get straight to the point, this guide will show you how to start earning online as a newbie with basic computer skills.

This is easy and requires zero investment, however if you follow my guide, with less than $50 you will earn even more.

I will be using Micro job/Freelance websites, domain name, web hosting, wordpress, woocommerce, payment forms and HF and try to change the way you think if you are a newbie into IM.

Step 1: Account registration

Go to each website below and register an account. Pick a good username that is easy to remember.Fiverr

SEOClerks

Legiit

PeoplePerHour

FiveSquids

Step 2: Listing services

To choose services to resell, go to SEOClerks and order by rating or price. Pick services that are $1 - $3. Rewrite the description. Learn basic GIMP/Photoshop actions and create unique image for your service.

List the service to all websites above for x2 or x3 the original price.

Go to the HF Marketplace and look for services $1 - $10.

List them on all the websites above for a higher price of your choice.

Step 3: Create Social Media Accounts

Create a Twitter account that you will use for promoting your services.

Go to: @fiverr/followers

Start following 10 - 15 people per day and interact with them. Use exchanges like addmefast to get a few follows just for the count. Increase that follow count gradually.

Do the same for Facebook and Pinterest.

Post your services links there.

Step 4: Video marketing

Go to Lumen5, Rawshorts, etc. and get a trial or free account or get camtasia from TPB and get into it as there are plenty of tutorials on Youtube.

Create a video for each service on each platform you sell. Start uploading on Youtube, Vimeo, Dailymotion, Metacafe, etc. and place your service link in description.

Step 5: Your first investment

Assuming you followed the steps above, in 2 weeks you should have earned $5 - $50.

Even if you did not, skip your daily starbucks coffee for 3 days and you have the money for your future business.

- Get a domain name $1 - $8 (godaddy has $1 domains)

- Get web hosting for 1 month $0.01 - $5 (hostgator has 1 cent offer)

The providers above actually suck so if you are able to afford spending more i recommend Namecheap, InternetBS, Dynadot or Njalla for domain registration and a web hosting provider from the HF Marketplace section.

Step 6: Build your store

Install wordpress, install woocommerce and setup products. Add your products/services and use Paypal and Coinbase plugins for payments that are free.

You can optionally get Jotform ($19) or Wufoo ($39) and set the products as affiliate products, but have them actually redirect to your form for payment and getting order info.

Step 7: Start blogging on your store domain and promote it

Using the skills mentioned above, start adding content and promoting that content using videos and social media. This will also help with ranking. Build some WEB 2.0 blogs. Do not spam. Use unique content. Treat your website as you would treat a new car, as you would treat your kids, your wife or person you love.

Step 8: Big investment

Assuming you already earned $300 - $1000 or more you are probably an addict here and learnt new things. Buy a Jr. VIP membership.

Start a sale thread.

Step 9: Your sale thread

Add new services on your micro jobs accounts from things you learnt on the forum. Add the same ones on your website. Include these on your marketplace thread.

Some ideas:Content writing

Graphics design

Guest posts

Promotion on your accounts, websites, etc.

Something else you enjoy doing

Step 10: Keep learning, skip school, forget about university and save money for new projects and scaling up

Yes, i skipped high school all the time and still all my grades were A, except History, Music and Art that i never wanted, but were forced back then as those stupid assfuck teachers never had anything real to offer.

Pick a niche you really love. Learn at least some basic Web design, Graphics design and Wordpress related things. Going into programming is not a bad idea and i recommend learning PHP or even further AI and automation.

Seems good but the amount of 1:1 work that is required for this type of content will eventually make something like this quite the hassle to pull off.
