Thread: Trying to unlimit totally legit perma banned Paypal

Purest. - August 10, 2019, 8:59 am

I sort of fucked up while entering my phone number on the paypal and entered my dads instead, so when paypal called him for questioning about my business he obviously didnt know jack and they perma banned it had around 4 grand in it, now I have been using the same paypal for more than 4 years and only gotten limited once before, if someone could help me fix this I would really appreciate it.

Thanks ?

We can't help you lol, only way to unfortunately get this fixed is trying to call support over and over and tell them the situation/fix it. Although don't see it going well and wish you luck

My partner got his pp fucked after a lookup of a limitation, he registered the paypal before being 18 and he had running his pp for 5-6 years and got fucked on the ass. He got blacklisted of paypal.

I did exacly the same and they just told me to create new account, since then never had a problem with limitation.

If you are going to call Paypal make sure to call from your dads number and not your own. Tell them that a family member answered the phone and not you.

You cannot keep your funds tho,

I think its 6 months they hold them?

You could try pretending you copy pasted the number without checking it. 4 years is a long time of legit business to get perm banned over a wrong phone number. Or you could say that is no longer your phone number and you forgot to update it on your account.
