Thread: The option for upgraded members to hide their profile from new/unupgraded members

red - August 11, 2019, 4:35 pm

Mb if this has been asked for before and denied for some obvious reason.

Is there any reason this couldn't be added? I hate having new members on my profile looking at shit and reviewing previous threads and posts.

This would be another incentive for new members to upgrade, so it is a win-win in my book.

Why do you want that option? Why do you hate having new members on your profile looking at Clay Davis and reviewing previous threads and posts????

Dafaq?

I like this feature,
Some times I will tell some one to just look through my threads.

What is the point? Why will new members click on your profile and review your whole shit?

Good thing is that we can all laugh TODAY from this thread of yours and we don't need to wait 5 years to search it up on your profile. :)
