@Vaster refusing to use mm for the reason "$35 is nothing, so i would be wasting my time using a mm"

Dwc. I got negged by him lmao.

OP made me find an exchanger for Paypal (already a waste of time).

OP had severe needy communication through every minute of me trying to find him Paypal funds.

OP had a very shitty and immature communication vocabulary, insulting me multiple times.

Instructed him to find a middleman, as I'm not doing so for $35 - he opened a tab, gave up and said let's deal.

OP is a complete waste of time.

1. Read the thread, it doesn't say bitcoin.

2. Because i needed the funds asap, i told you this.

3. I wasn't insulting you before we dealt, after I did because you were refusing to use a MM.

4. I can find us a mm right now, you said you weren't using a middleman. Add me back if still interested

So are you just crying about your popularity ?

This happened to me the other day to <https://hackforums.net/showthread.php?tid=5997747> fuck a mm I am my middle man.

Never had any sort of issues with Vaster. He was always extremely fast and professional . I assume your feelings are hurt because he negged you op.. and that's definitely not the reason to open community alert. Cheers.

OP reached back out to me - should be going first without anymore abusing behaviour.

We'll see.

If someone doesn't want to use a MM, then don't deal with them.

We don't need a pointless dramatic post in the marketplace every time someone chooses not to use one.

I try to explain to them this, most of the time it's new-members who of course want to protect their sale, I understand that.

But as someone dealing and active in the marketplace, it just isn't worth me messaging a middleman to waste their time and mine.

If member wants to do so, he can try find one himself.

$35 isn't worth my time to get a MM and it isn't for most active people in the marketplace.

SecureOp - August 12, 2019, 11:09 am

Lmfao got myself hustled after all that.
