

Forum:Hack Forums

Thread: Harassed By Cops

One - August 13, 2019, 10:47 am

Have you ever been Raided by Cops?

If so,What was your first reaction? Or were you taken unaware ?

Last time cops raided my home was in Malaysia 3 years ago, i was taken unaware i almost peed my pants. lol

MavenGradle - August 13, 2019, 10:56 am

I've been raided when I was a lot younger. I was fully aware it was going to happen and thus they came, confiscated my computers and found.. nothing. In other words, I got extremely lucky.

This all happened because I was accused of selling and distributing hacking tools. They found no proof, and thus had to let me go. Had to pay about 50 euros of court costs though. No matter, made plenty more back in the day. It did turn me on the right path though. No criminal records. Funny thing is, that later in life I was contacted by the same special IT crime related department in order to set them up with some specific infrastructures which I won't discuss.

Silent Uprising - August 13, 2019, 10:56 am

Yea I been harrassed by cops a few times. I was out driving with my mates. We see a cop behind us...so we turn a corner. I know it makes it look suspicious but then the cop turned behind us. We me mad another turn and sped up to make another turn. And the cop then turned and like floored it. And we were near one of my friends house so we parked on his drive way for like 30 minutes and the cop just stood parked on the side of the street waiting for us the leave the drive way.

Another time was when I ran from the cops with my friends and we were hiding in bushed and hoped some house fences and eventaully took us like 2 hours to lose them.

One - August 13, 2019, 11:02 am

(Aug 13, 2019 10:56 AM)MavenGradle Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) I've been raided when I was a lot younger. I was fully aware it was going to happen and thus they came, confiscated my computers and found.. nothing. In other words, I got extremely lucky.

This all happened because I was accused of selling and distributing hacking tools. They found no proof, and thus had to let me go. Had to pay about 50 euros of court costs though. No matter, made plenty more back in the day. It did turn me on the right path though. No criminal records. Funny thing is, that later in life I was contacted by the same special IT crime related department in order to set them up with some specific infrastructures which I won't discuss.

haha you were prepared for them .Lucky you

Bastille - August 13, 2019, 11:04 am

Never went at this point, went to the police station like 2 weeks ago, was funny tbh

Never had problem about hacking yet, though

One - August 13, 2019, 11:06 am

(Aug 13, 2019 10:56 AM)Silent Uprising Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Yea I been harrassed by cops a few times. I was out driving with my mates. We see a cop behind us...so we turn a corner. I know it makes it look suspicious but then the cop turned behind us. We me mad another turn and sped up to make another turn. And the cop then turned and like floored it. And we were near one of my friends house so we parked on his drive way for like 30 minutes and the cop just stood parked on the side of the street waiting for us the leave the drive way.

Another time was when I ran from the cops with my friends and we were hiding in bushed and hoped some house fences and eventaully took us like 2 hours to lose them.

i have been running from cops all my life,But i wont advise you to run from the slow ones they can get frustrated and pull the trigger lol

MavenGradle - August 13, 2019, 11:16 am

(Aug 13, 2019 11:02 AM)Tygaking Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) haha you were prepared for them .Lucky you Exactly. Very lucky. Had a little bird back then who told me what was about to happen almost 24 hours before they raided me. Almost something from out of a movie, but will NEVER happen again. I'm done with all things that are illegal. It's just not worth the mental strain it puts on a person.

'It's one thing knowing you're going to die one day, it's another thing entirely to know exactly when that moment will be'

Doctor. - August 13, 2019, 11:35 am

When I was 14 I would get paid to make a bunch of funny short videos for this person I met on RuneScape who was a 16 yr old millionaire from Finland that made money through gambling (Joopii if you guys are familiar with the RuneScape gambling scene back in the day, he now owns csgoempire)

Anyways he would give me the scripts for me to make the short video skits. I became a meme and semi-celebrity on this Finnish website that he would post to. One of the skits involved me sitting on my bed shirtless holding a BB gun saying some stuff and the retards doxxed me and emailed that video directly to my city's police department.

A week later two cops showed up at my door and confiscated my BB gun and they thought I was going to shoot up my high school but I told them it was just a funny video/prank. Thank God mass shootings were still new at that time (only columbine and the aurora movie theater shooting had happened) or else I probably would've had serious consequences. That taught me a lesson and I started to become more aware of my privacy and safety since then

One - August 13, 2019, 12:14 pm

(Aug 13, 2019 11:04 AM)Yseurk Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Never went at this point, went to the police station like 2 weeks ago, was funny tbhyou had a police issue?

Bastille - August 13, 2019, 1:06 pm

(Aug 13, 2019 12:14 PM)Tygaking Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) you had a police issue?

Yes, we just went out of a party with friends and one of us had to drive (he didn't drink), however he had some weapons in his car (don't worry, all legal and he has a licence for it). We walked, entered into the car, and then the police came. They asked if we had something on us illegal or dangerous, so my friend tell them about the weapons in the car trunk and then we went to the police station with them -_- No one of us already had police issues in the past, all cleaned.

After 1 hour they left us, the day after my friend went back to the police station to take back his weapons and just go out with them in front of people exiting the police station Imfao.

French police, nonsense.