

Forum:Hack Forums

Thread: \$60 worth of Ethereum sitting here, what should i Do?

CrypticNitrogen - August 14, 2019, 6:00 am

alright guys, so Im having this hard time trying to see what I can do with the $60 in ethereum i have sitting in my wallet for over 2 months because that was the last pay from my miner before my miner closes due to not profitable. I'm trying to see if anyone has any investment areas or websites or anything in general that could potentially generate more income, although $60 is not a lot for an crypto investment, I'd just like to see if the community can come up with any investment field of areas or just anything I can put my money in order to make a little bit of extra money out. leave your suggestions below the thread.

Thanks,

ClassifiedCrypto - August 14, 2019, 6:42 am

Invest it, PM me if you need help with this. By investing you could use it passively to earn more ETH over time. If you're more risky you could leverage trade with it and double or triple it in a day but you could easily loose it all just as well.

CrypticNitrogen - August 14, 2019, 6:58 am

(Aug 14, 2019 06:42 AM)ClassifiedCrypto Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Invest it, PM me if you need help with this. By investing you could use it passively to earn more ETH over time. If you're more risky you could leverage trade with it and double or triple it in a day but you could easily loose it all just as well.

Hello! Thanks for your time responding to my message. I have opened up a new chat in private message section area. Please make a respond when you are free! Thank you!

Crypto - August 14, 2019, 7:43 am

If you have a longterm vision of wanting to invest in cryptocurrency, then focus more on earning more money that can potentially be invested in crypto in the long term instead of focussing on getting this $60 to do insane returns, because that is less likely to happen.

$60 won't be able to make you rich, even doing a 10X to $600 would be very hard to do.

If you have a job and are making some money right now then I'd advise saving up as much as you can and buying cryptocurrency with a set % of your income each month.

Doctor. - August 14, 2019, 8:44 am

(Aug 14, 2019 07:43 AM)Crypto Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) If you have a longterm vision of wanting to invest in cryptocurrency, then focus more on earning more money that can potentially be invested in crypto in the long term instead of focussing on getting this $60 to do insane returns, because that is less likely to happen.

$60 won't be able to make you rich, even doing a 10X to $600 would be very hard to do.

If you have a job and are making some money right now then I'd advise saving up as much as you can and buying cryptocurrency with a set % of your income each month.

I agree with this guy. You should dollar cost average into crypto with every paycheck you get