Thread: [\[Discuss - Keyloggers future\]](#)

Claw - August 16, 2019, 10:40 am

I made this thread to share our opinions about keyloggers future, we have seen many high quality keyloggers fall down, and right now keyloggers are not same as it was before, so what made it to be like this in your opinion?, will keyloggers be alive again?, share your thoughts here

People started adding a bunch of unrelated crap features instead of focusing on the key logging itself. Might as well use a RAT then.

I don't expect that to change anytime soon.

Keyloggers are dead with or without tons of features, It's not 2002 anymore. People will use a RAT to have more control (online+offline keylogging).

Most (if not all) keyloggers on HF only support English keys which is weird!. They should start fixing the keylogging thing before adding more features.

Is a keylogger more discreet than a RAT ?

I mean, regarding the network traffic, or anti malware/virus ?

Maybe it could be still used in some cases when you have to be careful ?

Yeah, maybe but if you are selling a keylogger then don't expect a big sales. people will use botnets\RATs instead of keylogger.

Yeah that sounds about right, should just ditch standalone keyloggers/RATs and just go for a botnet most of the time, less fuckry happening with a good net haha

Rat owners don't care about recoveries, and for the english mine is global, thank you for your opinion.

I'm with you, keyloggers are safer than rats.

That's because most code their shit/malware in .NET and call a native function that does not perform the proper key translation.

I don't think keyloggers are the future. But, if you're bold enough go for it.

Neither do i, i'm working to do something better than just a keylogger, thank you for your opinion.
