To save a few minutes of readers' time, the method is freebitcoin interest. You make 4.08% annually. Obviously, if you want to make any usable profit, you will need massive capital. Even then the investment isn't good at all. If interest is compounded daily, it will take you roughly 17 years to double your money, regardless of the amount.

With a capital of 1 BTC (~$10874 now), you would make about $1.22 per day. To make any kind of decent and stable income will take well over 100 years.

If you want a stable, decent income while sitting on your ass all day and you trust this site with this amount of money, you will need a capital of over $2 million or roughly 184 BTC. I think it's safe to say that the vast majority of people don't have $2 million to throw at a faucet site for interest. There are much better ways you can increase that amount while also not wasting away from physical inactivity.
