Im very interested but im also a bit sceptical are you suree you can bypass windows defender runtime with cloud protection enabled for js rats??

I spoke with alot of ppl on various forums and tested many js/vbs crypters/obfuscators and its all good with scantime but runtime is impossible,so my question is if you can provide video proof of ur crypter bypassing WinDefender runtime with cloud protection enabled ? or screen sharing on skype would be even better.

Btw im using H worm and vjw0rm and even on the forum where this rats originate from ppl are saying its impossible to bypass runtime since 2018, so if u can make it work then u could probably sell it there aswell ;D

You are correct with your statement, it is almost impossible to bypass windows defender on runtime. But on the latest version of my software, there is an option where you can disable windows defender on runtime. If you enable this option, when you run your crypted file, it first disable windows defender, then later execute your main file.

It is a simple tech, i am not advertising what i don't know. My crypter allows you to crypt your java file to output a different file format which is (*.js) which is a native wscript (jscript) file. If you crypt your .jar file and output .jar, then you can't use the Auto-JRE feature. For you to be able to use the feature, you need to select another output format from the options of the builder, for example, input (.jar) and output (.js).

With this, you can achieve the Auto-JRE feature.

If you need more clarification, you can as well ask.

It is unfortunate that on this forum there are many scammers and sellers of poor quality service. I spent two days waiting for a test plug (I wanted to buy a private one). I got a test plug, and when downloading it, the Windows defender immediately found it. I did not continue to test, as this does not make sense. Skype support is very long. The answer can be expected at least half a day and then Draw your own conclusions, maybe I'm just out of luck.

I can't believe you came out here to say this, you chatted me on skype that you needed a test file. I offered you a free crypt, you said you don't want cos its general stub, you said you wanted me to code a private stub for you and then give you a test file with it, I still spent hours coding private stub for you, without even collecting a penny from you, I gave you, after you have used it you now came here to say these things....I'm not surprised for your negative popularity...

Hello, yes, I asked you to buy a private stub, you sent me a test file, I sent it to my server, and it was immediately detected during scanning. I wrote to you about this. I sent you the first file and only during the day did you reply that the file is in the wrong format. I have nothing against you, you honestly showed how your cryptor works. My rating was artificially underestimated, the seller pressed me so that I would send him the money as soon as possible, it alerted me. And this seller underestimated my rating, I wrote in his topic and he deleted my messages. I think that users have the right to know the truth, not just beautiful reviews. I repeat once again that I have nothing against you, maybe you just did not have enough time to work with me.
