Thread: Best ways to promote a free eBook?

Ivex - August 31, 2019, 11:48 am

I've been gone awhile.

Been busy with personal stuff and then been writing my 124 page, 25,000+ word free money making eBook. It has so many affiliate links I reckon I could make 6 figures from it if I can get 6 figure downloads.

So, anyone got any promotion ideas for me? :)

Currently I'm thinking:

- Forums (ebook sections like on HF, then on forums that allow website promotion I'll be promoting my LP)
- Own social media (across all accounts I probs have like 30,000 followers, not niche relevant but could pick up some extras)
- Mass social media (going to use social exchanges for some LQ shares, can use bots to earn points on sites, probs won't help much, few extra downloads)
- Influencer social media (once I have a few thousand downloads and am starting to get data on how much I earn per download I'll pay influencers in the money making niche)
- Through my blog (The Lazy Millionaire, but primarily I'm using the eBook to drive subscriptions to the blog so)
- Quora (going to answer questions about any of the 101 methods included in my eBook then link back to my LP)
- YouTube (going to upload a video to my channel that has 600 subs and promote my eBook through that then promote the video, I average 10k views)
- Physical marketing (students need money, I go to uni, going to go to the campus accommodation blocks and put leaflets in the letter boxes)

Anyone with ideas would be appreciated, will drop bytes to anyone who has a good idea.

Crimin4L - August 31, 2019, 12:22 pm

I feel like you already covered almost every marketing promotion there is xD

Um, maybe you can have someone with a higher view count on YouTube or any other social media outlet give you a nice shout-out. Or even create a 10-20 minute video showing the procedure on top of the eBook would definitely open some eyes.

That's all I really got, I hope I could help. I would love to take a look at this tho sounds very promising :) Also, you gotta find a way to keep it only on your site. What if people take the eBook and share it themselves. Wouldn't you be missing out on capital?

Sigma - August 31, 2019, 12:48 pm

Facebook targeted ads would be the best at this time.

I'll be posting it on HF as soon as I finish editing :) And yeah I plan on doing a video for each method as a YouTube series, each one will pull in views individually for its own keywords but I can promote the eBook on all of them. Thanks!

Great ideas to target potential clients. I reckon you'll be successful with your agenda

Blogger - August 31, 2019, 4:14 pm

Forums with a freebie section or "leak" type of forums. It also helps to get more downloads if you don't mention that it's a free ebook.

This eBook has honestly took so long. Spent the last 2 days building up a few lists as bonus content - useful sites, etc. Had to sign up to well over 250+ sites to get myself referral links. If it flops I will be devastated. I'm not even going to consider that happening it's 100s of hours of work.

Facebook marketing groups are good. You can even target certain cities on reddit or something. Like /r/sanantonio or something.

hi, i got your priv message and the ebook, thank you hope you don't get mad but i think it's a bit too overwhelming at first look havent read it yet, as i just arrived from work but i took a sneek peek and i feel like it's a bit too much at once maybe arrange it a bit like, the simple, faster methods, which build up some trust and confidence for people for example Coinbase (i think you got that like nr 29 or so) is informative, fast and simple, also quite high value once all done

i guess more details, maybe pictures wont hurt just my opinion, as i said i havent read trough it all, just a first impression

i think youtube can get you a lot of subs if the quality of videos is good, also has exponential growth once you provide quality content and it's easier for people, than to read trough a lot of data also has the potential to get you enough views for a substantial youtube income check joshua fluke, he tried for a very long time and he just passed the 1 million mark lately, i joined when he was around 300k?

i think you could hire some good graphic designer, and improve on the graphics, some modern looking website and ebook pictures could boost your views hope you don't mind, just my 2 cents, thank you

I could definitely arrange them from 5 minute methods to full on business creation methods in order to ease people into it.

Yeah, I could do 2 pages per method next time in order to be able to fit in more pictures and explanation.

And YouTube is good, I cover it a few times in the eBook and also sell an eBook about dominating the YouTube algorithm.

I'm currently working on the website design, I just wanted to get a LP made quickly after all the time spent writing. :) In a few months time the website should be looking very modern and the eBook will be accessible via a much cleaner page.

Thanks for your suggestions, I'll definitely be taking them on board with my 2020 version of the eBook which should be 200 Ways to Earn Money Online.

pein - September 2, 2019, 9:09 pm yeah, it has an interesting wibe, not sure what is your font but haz a lazy wibe to it :D

maybe do some series, like break down the 200 methods to 20 each, per weekend (like a Lazy Friday afternoon series) some sort of quiz or game? easter eggs or encrypted message and offer some minimal reward that would be bite size for people, and a bit of motivation to read it trough also you would have more data and feedback on each, possibly, like a WordPress.com poll or something you could also create an embedded flipping ebook with something like Calameo or Issuu or Jumpshare (havent checked them lately, they changed some free features over time), not sure on restricted privacy

Don't let it go for free just as is.

In the world full of promotions, you need to outstand the odds.

And yes, Reddit brings in more traffic than Twitter, Facebook, Instagram combined (unless you actually have a massive following).

I have about 150 tweets, and 200 retweets promoting my eBook and it brings in marginal conversions. Reddit is getting the same amount in the first hour.

I'd look into some email marketing campaigns (you can rent other peoples lists) with niche-relevant lists.

They are very powerful if you are getting the right lists from people, or build your own with FB Ads - That's what I normally do if I launch an info product.

I'm just wary spending money as so far I have almost 300 downloads and only about $25 locked in profit. That's less than $0.1 per download. It may cost me more in ads than I'd earn. Need more data first.

Imo it's always worth the loss at the start to get some more quality data, but that's just how I've always been haha.

I don't mind losing money on the front end because the long-term effect of quality subscriptions & great data has always been a good thing for me.

I'm just concerned Facebook may not be my audience. FB users seem to be about quick fixes. Making money from my eBook requires people who can focus.

So not IG either.

AdWords perhaps? But I need to find a way to make a new account they banned me.

Maybe LinkedIn? Or Reddit?

Nahh idk, thats what I like about FB - The fact you can hyper target cuz they been spying on everyone since the beginning of time lmao

So I think you'd definitely be able to find people interested in free shit to learn more ways to make money.

But reddit I definitely think is a good idea, never done too much with linkedin though.

AdWords can be alright too
